

Join North American Fruit Explorers (NAFEX) to learn more about fruit growing.

NAFEX is a network of professional and amateur --fruit growers devoted to the discovery, cultivation and appreciation of fine fruits and nuts. They exchange ideas, information, experience and propagating materials. All methods of horticulture are embraced—organic and chemical management systems. Members are bound by the spirit of fellowship and cooperation in the common quest for the best in fruit.

Privileges of NAFEX membership include:

The quarterly journal, Pomona. Four online ONLY issues, archives, and the Fall Pomona sent in print.

The R.W.Daniels Lending Library. A large selection of pomological titles - many old and out-of-print - is available via the mails for modest borrowing fees. Besides books, the NAFEX Library offers back issues of Pomona, files containing collections of articles on many specific topics, and videotapes. The NAFEX Library is probably the best resource available for anyone just starting out in fruit growing. New members receive a complimentary copy of the NAFEX lending library booklist and rules for borrowing.

NAFEX Listserv. The listserv offers immediate answers to your fruit growing questions and expert advice on every fruit.

NAFEX meetings. The annual meeting is held every summer at a facility involved in horticultural research. In some areas, regional groups hold scionwood exchanges, grafting workshops, and fruit tastings.

Fruit and Nut Interest Groups. Specialists in over thirty types of fruits and nuts are ready to help newcomers succeed with their plantings. Members may write their questions to these experts or may participate in one or more groups.
