

5 STEPS

to Find Out If Your Site Was Penalised by GOOGLE

Thousands of websites are getting penalised daily by Google! Many of the sites owners don't even suspect that their websites are not shown anymore in the Google search results.

We - LINKQUIDATOR Team - will tell you what are the 5 easy steps to find out if your website was penalised, so you can check your site's situation right now and take the needed measures!

Brand Name Doesn't Show Up in Google

Small drops in ranking over a short period of time is a natural factor, especially if you are ranking your website in highly competitive keyword fields. But there is the best keyword you should be ranking well: your brand name.

If you search your brand name in Google Search and have a difficult time finding your website, the chances are that you got penalised by Google.

There's a Huge Traffic and PageRank Drop

If your website traffic has been down over the past week and if you encounter a sudden drop in your PageRank this is something you should worry about.

For example, if your PageRank was 3 and a week later it suddenly fell to a 0 or 1 this might be an indicator of penalty.

Site Doesn't Come Up in Google

The easiest way to find out if your website was penalised is to do a site search by entering "site:www.mydomain.com" into the Google search box.

Perform this check and if your site does not come up, there's clearly something wrong.

You Have Received a Penalty Notification Email

Often Google's Webspam Team send "Unnatural Links Warning" emails to inform websites owners that their sites don't match Google's guidelines and therefore it was penalised.

Search your mail inbox and your Google Webmaster Tools account messages page and find out if you haven't received or skipped a email for Google.

There are Bad Links Pointing to Your Website

Most of the times penalties are given to websites that bought low quality SEO services and got a bunch of bad links pointing to them.

Perform a fast backlinks scan of your website and find out if there are bad links pointing to your website. They might be the reason of your penalty.
