1. Background and General Description

Bangladesh is a country of about 160 million people with a population density 1142/sq.km. Country's economy is not big and developed enough to support such a gigantic population. The vast majority of this population is in rural areas and depend on agriculture for their livelihoods thus the agricultural development and sustainable rural water resources management are critical for socio economic development of the country. In this context, it is important for farmers to increase water use efficiency and improve agricultural water management, while preserving aquatic ecosystems.

It is noted that, due to the lack of adequate drainage systems, farmlands remain submerged for a long time after a flood and rainy season, causing serious damage to agricultural production. On the other hand during the dry season, farming output is decreased by as much as 30% due to drought. In light of these conditions, it is essential to develop sustainable management of water resources for agriculture by providing adequate water management infrastructure in order to reduce waterlogging, flood management and drainage, and water conservation in line with, Bangladesh Water Act, National Water Policy, National water Management Plan and Guidelines for Participatory Water Management.

Local Government Engineering Department (LGED) got involvement in agricultural invention through surface water management that includes water conservation (WC); drainage improvement (DI); flood management (FM); command area development (CAD) and WMCA office for institutional development. This intervention increases agricultural and fish production through institutionalization of stakeholders for ecological and viable water resources management. Since 1995 LGED implemented about 800 stake-holders driven sub project but still, there is a huge demand all over the country. A follow up project is under process by JICA (38th batch loan) covering Dhaka, Mymensingh, Sylhet and Rangpur division.

Hence it is very much needed to implement another project for Barisal, Khulna, Rajshahi division and 3 hill districts as there are big demand on water sector project. Barisal, Khulna division is under threat of salinity intrusion; Rajshahi is under threat of drought. To solve irrigation and drinking demand, 3 hill districts is included. Additionally it is needed to be rehabilitated and enhancement of previously completed subproject to make it fully functioning as well as increasing command area. It is expected that the project will help in achieving the goal of 7th FYP and SDG.

The project comprises of:

- (i) Development, Rehabilitation and Enhancement of small scale water resources infrastructure of 300 (50 new development and 250 rehabilitation/enhancement) subprojects covering about 72,500 ha cultivated area and establishing sustainable water management system.
- (ii) Strengthening operation and maintenance by institutionalizing beneficiary participation and by capacity building of WMCAs.
- (iii) Strengthening Government institutions in establishing sustainable water management system.

Project Period:

The Project is expected to be completed by December 2021

Project duration: 60 Month

Consulting Services: 18 Man-month

Project Area:

The target area of the Project is four Divisions in Bangladesh include Rajshahi, Khulna, Barisal and three hill districts of Chittagong (Bandarban, Khagrachari and Rangamati).

Executing Agency:

The executing agency is Local Government Engineering Department (LGED), Local Government Division, Ministry of Local Government, Rural Development and Cooperatives.

2. Objectives of the Services required:

The objectives of the consultancy services of Hydrology Specialist(HS) is to assist the project management in some particular necessary area of expertise, which have not been covered comprehensively by Project Management Unit (PMU) and Project Implementation Unit (PIU) to achieve the efficient and proper implementation of the project through the following works:

- 1) Assistance in planning, designing, and development of water resources management infrastructures;
- 2) To provide technical and operational support in developing and operating water management structures for agricultural development;
- 3) Assistance in incorporating best practices for climate change adaptation in water management structures for agricultural development;

3. Scope of Services, Tasks (Components) and Expected Deliverables):

The project will be implemented by PMU established by LGED. LGED will procure services of HS for smooth and effective implementation of the project. Detailed scope of the works for SWRDS is as follows:

(1) Overall Project Management

- 1) To assist PMU in preparation of overall project management plan;
- 2) To assist PMU in assessing the relationship between rainfall, run off, surface water and soil and rock features for the catchment;
- 3) To assist PMU in execution of baseline and post-evaluation survey;

(2) Planning and Design Water Resource Modeling

- 1) To ensure the effective flow of water through channels
- 2) To assist in efficient planning, development and sustainable use of natural water resources
- 3) To ensuring water is supplied in the most cost-effective manner
- 4) To designed computer modeling packages to assess the most effective methods of managing available water in a particular area
- 5) To planning of water resource development by forecasting and monitoring water usage and rainfall;

(3) Hydrological Management

- 1) To contribute to the planning, development, and execution of water management structures, with a particular focus on engineering design; hydrological assessment/review;
- 2) To support the use of high level technologies for modeling flood routing, water allocations for optimized supplies to various users including climate change adaptation impacts, and
- 3) To develop the flood forecasting and drought management strategy;
- 4) To estimate water yields and utilization of water in a specific natural drainage area;
- 5) To calculate and auditing water resource systems and analyzing this data; and
- 6) To apply hydrological and statistical techniques to water resource modeling and analysis

- (iii) analyzing the effect of environmental changes on water flow;
- (iv) studying the effects on flows brought about by changes in land use for agriculture and fish production;
- (v) planning responses to specific weather conditions, such as droughts and floods, and assessing the impacts of such events on water catchments and supplies;

- (vi) undertaking hydrological modeling to allow the development of flood forecasting and drought management strategy;
- (vii) assisting in the planning of water resource development by forecasting and monitoring water usage and rainfall;
- (viii) estimating water yields, taking into account the utilization of water in a specific natural drainage area ('catchment');
- (ix) assessing the relationship between rainfall, run off, surface water and soil and rock features for the catchment;
- (x) calculating and auditing water resource systems and analyzing this data;
- (xi) liaising with specialists, consultants and clients;
- (xii) overseeing data collection on-site by hydrometrics and other staff;
- (xiii) supervising the collection, processing and evaluation of data for water resource planning and flood management;
- (xiv) applying hydrological and statistical techniques to water resource modeling and analysis;
- (xv) developing computer systems to improve the efficiency of data collection and analysis;
- (xvi) ensuring delivery of a project on time and to cost and quality targets; and other task as assigned by PMU.

6. Duty Station:

The Hydrology Specialist will generally be stationed in the PMU, LGED HQ Dhaka, but will be expected to periodically visit in each of the PIUs and sub-projects as per requirement even in holidays as emergency.
