Philippine Senator Arrested Over Huge Corruption Scam

Philippine Senator Ramon 'Bong' Revilla waves from a police car as he is ...

A Philippine senator and former movie star was arrested on Friday, becoming the first politician detained over a massive corruption scandal that has rocked the nation, with two of his colleagues set to follow.

Senator Ramon "Bong" Revilla, a former action hero who parlayed his fame into a political career, surrendered following an emotional saga played out for weeks on national television.

"I will go to jail with my head held high, and I will come out with my head held high," Revilla, 47, told reporters shortly after attending a televised mass with his family.

He later arrived at the anti-graft court that ordered his arrest and was seen beaming to a crowd of journalists and

Woman to be First Charged Under Philippine Cybercrime Law

A woman has been indicted for computer fraud in the first such case under the Philippines' controversial cybercrime law, justice department records showed Sunday.

Karla Martinez Ignacio could face up to six years in jail if found guilty of transferring thousands of dollars to her bank account using fraudulent computer data.

She was indicted by a prosecutor in the city of Las Pinas, outside Manila, and is set to be charged under the Philippines' Cybercrime Prevention Act.

The law is designed to stamp out online scourges like fraud, identity theft and child pornography, but critics say it could be used to stifle dissent as it imposes heavy prison terms for online libel.

Facebook and Twitter have become popular ways of organising major political street protests in the Philippines.

The law was passed in 2012 but its implementation was suspended after coming under challenge from various groups.

The Supreme Court ruled in February that the law was not unconstitutional, paving the way for its implementation.

But the court ruled against a provision giving authorities sweeping powers to shut down websites or record Internet traffic data in real time./AFP News

26-Year Old Needs to Sustain Dialysis Treatment

Janice Bobila is 26, the second of three children of Jovita (nee Fiao-ilan), a 42-year old widow who raised her children alone by doing laundry and odd jobs after her husband succumbed to cancer in 1998.

Janice herself learned early that life is no fairy tale. After graduating from the Benguet National High School, she stopped going to school. Not because her mother could hardly cope with the demands of single-handedly providing for three kids.

"Janice stopped schooling after graduating in high school when she was diagnosed (for) brain tumor," noted social worker Kryslyn Pantaleon in a report she prepared last April to support the girl's application for financial assistance from the Philippine Charity Sweepstakes Office (PCSO).

The girl licked the tumor through surgery and cobalt radiation therapy. Just when she thought her medical trial was over, she learned she was diabetic and had to learn to inject herself with insulin.

Last March 31, another big blow came. She was diagnosed for end-stage kidney failure, a long-term complication of diabetes. She was advised to maintain her insulin dosage and start her lifetime dialysis treatment.

What worries her mother nowadays is that

OFW Agencies Must Shape up

Lawmaker proposes separate OFW department

Senator Alan Peter S. Cayetano is contemplating on filing a bill seeking to create a dedicated department that will look after the welfare of Overseas Filipino Workers (OFWs) that is separate from the Department of Labor and Employment.

"Despite a growing economy, it may take 10 to 20 years to bring back our OFWs home. And the perennial problem of discrimination, abuse and injustice will continue. A separate department will be able to address these more effectively," Cayetano said.

A clear example is the issue of the Hong Kong OFWs who complain about the abusive practices of their recruitment agency, whom they accused of capturing their ATM cards and charging them up to HK$21,000 as placement fee.

Cayetano filed a resolution asking the Philippine Overseas Employment Administration (POEA) to look into the complaint and file the appropriate cases against the recruitment agencies, if warranted.

The senator said his office received from the Global Ministers Association of Hong Kong a letter dated June 7, 2014 requesting his intervention to assist the plight of OFWs against Hong Kong-based Satisfactory Employment and Travel Agency. They claimed that the agency was charging them exorbitant placement and other fees and captured their ATM cards to automatically deduct said fees on a monthly basis.

"I am asking the POEA to look into this. Kawawa naman ang mga OFWs natin kung ito ay totoo. This is why a separate department for OFWs is needed, to address these kinds of issues. Isang departamento na walang iisipin kung hindi kapakanan nila," he said.

"Ang remittances ng ating mga OFWs ang bumubuhay sa economy natin and yet hindi sila inaalaagan. We need to send a strong message na importante sila, na aalaagan sila ng gobyerno."/Office of Senator Alan Peter Cayetano the PCSO support will be good only until the end of this month. The girl had also her fund assistance from the Philhealth. She will need Samaritans to maintain her lifetime treatment for kidney failure.

"She has to be on twice-a-week hemodialysis treatment scheduled from 8 p.m. every Tuesday and Friday at the Baguio General Hospital and Medical Center," Jovita said. "We simply don't know how we could pay P2,200 per treatment session as her PCSO fund guarantee will last only until next week."

Jovita said her daughter was eligible for 45 treatments

a year under the Philhealth package. "What I didn't know was that the number of treatments was reduced as the support fund was used to pay her other medical and hospital bills when she was confined due to complications," she added.

Last Tuesday morning, hours before Jovita asked that her family's appeal for support be publicized so Samaritans could respond, Philhealth president Alexander Padilla said the government health insurance agency is still studying a proposal to increase the sponsored dialysis sessions of kidney patients from 45 to 90 a year.

"We are studying this proposal as no less than (Baguio) mayor (Mauricio) Domogan noted the increasing number of patients undergoing hemodialysis treatment," Padilla said during a press conference when he arrived

Show some Respect! Don't desecrate Names of Heroes, Historical Sites

Senator Pia S. Cayetano today blasted the bid of a local liquor making company to register the names of several historical figures and places as brands for its alcoholic beverage products.

The Chairperson of the Senate Committee on Education, Arts and Culture, Cayetano said the plan of Destileria Limtuaco, Inc. (DLI) to register as its own trademarks the names of several Philippine heroes, including 'Rizal,' 'Bonifacio,' and 'Gomburza,' "threatens to desecrate, misappropriate and trivialize their national and historic significance."

"Dr. Jose Rizal, Gat Andres Bonifacio and the three martyred priests (Padre Mariano Gomez, Jose Burgos and Jacinto Zamora) all laid their lives for the freedom and rights we enjoy today, and this is how Destileria Limtuaco intends to honor them? Or are they simply taking advantage of their good names to reap the benefits by having their names and images emblazoned on their bottles of whisky, gin, brandy and rum?" the senator asked.

"It boggles my mind that the corporate executives of this company are so callous and un-Filipino that they would appropriate the names of Philippine heroes and landmarks for use on their alcoholic products which are known vices."

Cayetano also strongly criticized the Intellectual Property Office (IPO) for allowing the initial approval of DLI's application to register 'Intramuros,' as a liquor brand.

"I cannot understand how the IPO, a government agency that is tasked to uphold the law and the national interest, would allow the name of a national heritage site to be reduced into a brand of an intoxicating beverage? The IPO could have used its authority instead to reject the application outright."

She further explained: "The trademark examiner has the discretion to deny an application during the substantive examination based on Section 123 of the Intellectual Property Code. If he or she denies it, then it will not be allowed for publication for purposes of opposition."

The senator, a lawyer, noted that the Intellectual Property Code (Republic Act 8293) sets very strict guidelines when registering a mark associated with names, national symbols and geographical areas:

- Sec. 123.1.a: A mark cannot be registered if it consists of immoral, deceptive or scandalous matter, or MATTER WHICH MAY DISPARAGE OR FALSELY SUGGEST A CONNECTION WITH PERSONS, LIVING OR DEAD, INSTITUTIONS, beliefs, or NATIONAL SYMBOLS, OR BRING THEM INTO CONTEMPT OR DISREPUTE;

- Sec. 123.1.g: A mark cannot be registered if it "is likely to mislead the public, particularly as to the nature, quality, characteristics or GEOGRAPHICAL ORIGIN of the goods or services"; and

- Section 123.1.j: Also says a mark cannot be registered if it "consists exclusively of signs or indications that may serve in trade to designate the xxx GEOGRAPHIC ORIGIN xxx of the goods or rendering of the services, or other characteristics of the goods or services." [Note: ALL EMPHASIS ours]

As to DLI's applications to register names of several provinces and cities, she particularly cited the application for 'Tacloban' as "markedly opportunistic and insensitive."

Cayetano pointed out: "A check with the IPO website would show that DLI's application to register 'Tacloban' was filed last March 31, or just four months after super typhoon Yolanda brought widespread destruction to that city. Its residents have barely recovered from the death of relatives, loss of homes, livelihoods and basic services."

"Tacloban has become a global symbol of Filipino resilience, hope, recovery and cooperation. And this liquor company has the gall to misappropriate it for selfish ends and corporate profits."

The senator said she fully supports the National Commission on Culture and the Arts (NCCA) and the Intramuros Administration

Senate Majority Leader Alan Peter "Companero" S. Cayetano said today that the Department of Justice must focus on the evidence and not be swayed by the criticisms from various sectors to include administration allies in the next batches of cases in the ongoing pork barrel scam investigation.

Cayetano wants more transparency so that all those guilty will be investigated and indicted, while all that are innocent shall be cleared.

The senator issued the statement in relation to reports that Secretary Joel Villanueva of TESDA is among those who will be charged in the third batch of cases filed with the Ombudsman.

"The Department of Justice must not allow its investigation to be dictated simply by the clamor of certain groups and individuals to include administration allies in the pork barrel cases. Truth and evidence should be the primary consideration of the investigation," Cayetano said.

He said Villanueva, his fellow anti-corruption advocate who has been fighting corruption since he joined Congress as representative of the CIBAC (Citizens Battle Against Corruption) party list, will reportedly be charged with malversation of public funds over his alleged misuse of his priority development assistance funds (PDAF).

"In the case of Secretary Villanueva, he didn't meet any of the three criteria as presented by Secretary De Lima herself. He never put anything in the Napoles (NGO); second there's no whistleblower pointing to him, and third, the special audit itself said that the project was delivered and was fully audited but it was in the papers that a case will be filed against him," Cayetano said.

"So now the people are asking, what is the process of the DOJ in determining who will be charged or not? Is it the evidence or is this just about public pressure and criticism? Is Secretary Villanueva just a sacrificial lamb? The DOJ should follow the evidence and the documents readily available from the COA and DBM and not be pressured just to save face."

The senator stressed that the strength of cases against powerful public officials have always emanated from truth and evidence. Cayetano is concerned that if we start filing cases just because it is popular, the stronger cases will also be affected and the credibility of the investigators will be severely damaged.

Whether they are palace allies or detractors, DOJ must file the cases for as long as they are really guilty and not because critics are pressuring them to do so./Office of Senator Alan Peter Cayetano

Mayor Urges Revision of Realty Tax Valuation

BAGUIO CITY – Mayor Mauricio Domogan on Monday reiterated the need for the city to update its schedule of real property tax valuation to comply with the mandate of the law.

The mayor told the department heads that the Bureau of Internal Revenue (BIR) will publish the list of local government units that are not complying with the mandated revision of fair market values for real properties and the city is included in the list.

"It amounts to saying that we are not doing our job to impose the mandated revision," the mayor said.

As per provisions of the New Local Government Code or the Republic Act No. 7160, it is the mandate of the city government to undertake a general revision of real property tax valuation every three years.

Early this year, city assessor Nilda Navarro said that because of the city government's failure to implement the mandated adjustments, the city assessor's office has been given a poor rating by the Bureau of Local Government Finance (BLGF).

To correct this, Navarro said they worked on a new schedule of market values effective 2015 to be submitted to the BLGF before the end of the first semester. As a new procedure, the BLGF will be the one to submit the proposed revision to the city council for its consideration.

The last time the city implemented the revision in 1996 and this was met by protests from taxpayers prompting the city government to instead impose the increase on a staggered basis spread out from 1997 to 1999.

In 2001, the city government adopted Tax Ordinance 2000-001 which imposed lower assessment levels for real properties that tempered the increase and eventually appeased the taxpayers.

Since then, the city has not implemented another revision due to humanitarian considerations.

In 2009, the assessor's office submitted to the city council a new revision schedule but the same remained pending before council committee on ways and means cluster B and has now become obsolete as two revision terms have since elapsed.

In the said proposed schedule, the average increase in realty taxes was placed at 400 percent which is way above the 1996 levels considering the length of time that the city did not implement the adjustments.

Navarro said they cannot give a projection as to the possible level of increase in the present schedule as it will depend on the assessment level that the city council will determine. As per policy, the city council has the prerogative to decide on the assessment levels of the real property to cushion the effect of the increase in the fair market value of the real properties./A Refuerzo ronmental requirements and conditions that the DENR will recommend," he said.

Domogan pointed out the planned ISWMS is not like the open dumping system practiced in Irisan Dumpsite years back.

"We will be incorporating a waste processing system that will include latest technology to process waste which is environmentally sound and safe," he said.

As early as 2009, the City

Mayor: New Waste Scheme Will Undergo Procedure

BAGUIO CITY – Mayor Mauricio Domogan this week announced the progress of the Integrated Solid Waste Management System (ISWMS) which the city government is planning to operationalize in this mountain resort.

The mayor revealed initial stages of public consultation has already transpired in order to know the sentiments of residents who will be affected by the project.

The city is concentrating on two locations, the Santo Tomas city property and a private property in Sablan as site for its ISWMS.

Domogan however assured the public that before

Price tag

No, thank you. We chucked a second chance under a new law that enables human rights victims to claim reparation.

We cheer those lodging long overdue claims under Republic Act No. 10368, we wrote in a letter to the Human Rights Victims' Claims Board, through its chair, retired general Lina C. Sarmiento. This is justice long denied.

For us, "it is enough that abuses inflicted by the Marcos dictatorship are documented for our grandchildren."

President Aquino signed that bill into law on Feb. 25, 2013—the 27th anniversary of the People Power revolt that toppled the Marcos regime. Staffing the commission on to drafting the operating rules took another year.

The new agency started processing claims May 12. There is, however, a "sunset clause." The commission has a narrow window of only two years to complete this task.

RA 10368 is an institutional assertion against the drum-beat insistence of Imelda and Ferdinand Marcos Jr., in a family chorus: "The 'New Society' was the most democratic phase the country ever experienced." That has been their line since they tiptoed back from Hawaiian exile with the dictator's embalmed remains.

Nonsense, journalist Raissa Robles said in a paper delivered earlier at the Third World Studies Center in the University of the Philippines Diliman. "For each day (Marcos) was in power as dictator, there were 23 new victims. Or almost every hour of the 14 years he remained a dictator, nearly one citizen was killed or tortured."

"How much for a blow on the head?" a claimant asked Inquirer columnist Ceres Doyo, who was also a victim. "To put monetary value on the suffering of the Marcos victims is adding insult to injury."

EDITORIAL

Is there a price tag for the terror that petrified the spouses and children of those arrested under Proclamation No. 1081? What is the peso-and-centavo formula for the now-aging families of the 759 desaparecidos or the "disappeared" under the abandoned New Society?

Among them is Redemptorist Fr. Rudy Romano of Cebu, snatched by martial law agents. His remains were never found. Instead, his marker fronts the Mother of Perpetual Help Church, rarely seen because of flower shrubs. Historian Alfred McCoy cites 3,257 extrajudicial killings, 35,000 torture victims, and 70,000 incarcerated during the Marcos years.

"The name Philippines Free Press is not for sale," publisher Teodoro Locsin Sr. told those casing the magazine's printing plant, closed down by a dictator's fiat. What does it profit a man if he peddles what is most human to gain brittle temporary power?

We were among the 22 Manila-based journalists detained in the first wave of arrests uncorked by Proclamation 1081. Some, like the late publisher Joaquin "Chino" Roces and columnist Max Soliven were shoved into Fort Bonifacio. We were locked up in Camp Crame with then Daily Mirror, now Inquirer columnist Amando Doronila, Philippine News Service's Manuel Almario, plus the late Luis Beltran of Evening News and Graphic's Luis Mauricio.

That roundup included political leaders like the late senator Benigno Aquino Jr., Ramon Mitra Jr. plus independent constitutional convention delegates Teofisto Guingona Sr., Napoleon Rama and Jose Concepcion Jr.

The now-frayed "conditional release" order, from the 5th Military Intelligence Group, before us reads: All were "arrested and detained for subversion... You are not allowed to leave the confines of the Greater Manila area unless specifically authorized... You are prohibited from talking in any local or foreign press interview."

Violation of these provisions would subject you to immediate arrest and confinement."

People Power 1 was to scrub all that 14 dark years later. As President Aquino said, in his 2014 Independence Day speech in Naga City, Ninoy remains the classic example of the human rights victim.

Reparation will be drawn from the P10 billion that the government has allotted from recovered Marcos ill-gotten wealth for the victims. This is apart from the $2 billion (P88 billion) assigned by the US Hawaii District Court, in 1995, for 7,526 recognized members who lodged a class suit. They got a second tranche payment.

We missed that first bus. With help from the late Executive Secretary Jacobo Clave and human rights advocate Joker Arroyo, we managed to get an exit permit to serve in the United Nations in Rome and Bangkok. Now, we'll skip the second bus.

In between, the US Federal Court (9th Circuit) slapped a $353,000 fine on Imelda and Ferdinand Jr. The court found they tried to secretly ship out paintings, from among court-contested holdings, for "a 25-percent, tax-free share." Junior threatens to reenter Malacañang through the 2016 elections.

Is amnesia today's response to Sen. Jose Diokno's letter, written from prison in December 1972?

"I've been deprived of freedom, stripped of my dignity. A nonperson, I'm reduced to having to ask permission for such a simple pleasure, as to step outside my prison to feel the wind on my face and the warmth of the sun on my back."

But "we can, even now, scrutinize our past; try to pinpoint what went wrong; determine what led to his madness," he added. "And how, when it ends, we can make sure it need never happen again."

Despite its long delayed start and modest reach, RA 10368 is an institutional cry: Nunc mas. "Never again." /Juan L. Mercado/E-mail: juanlmercado@gmail.com

ADVOCACY MINDANOW

ON VOLCANOES & POWER

BY: JESUS DUREZA

We are told that the Philippines straddles the so-called "ring of fire", an arch-shaped swathe of land in the globe that includes several countries. Being in the "ring of fire" means being vulnerable to earthquakes and upheavals like volcano eruptions triggered by hot magma building up tremendous pressure underneath. Bad and tragic for us, yes. But NOT all that bad, really! For one, due to earth's periodic convulsions, we are a mineralized land caused by the periodic movements of the earth's crust or tectonic plates pushing to the surface from the earth's wombs gold, copper and other precious metals.

MOUNT APO — Talking of volcanoes. I once visited Lake Agco at the Mount Apo slopes during a media forum arranged by MindaNews. It was an ascending trip from Kidapawan City to the resort site high up in the slopes. Hot steaming water from the bowels of the earth fed into steaming ponds. It was the first time I realized that volcanoes were all not that dangerous and bad. In fact, geothermal aquifers in volcanic areas can be veritable sources of cheap power for all of us. Nearby was the PNOG - EDC geothermal power plants. We know that geothermal plants are still, by far, the most desirable renewable power source as it leaves the least environment "footprint", leaves no waste and it is the most environment friendly source of power. Significantly, per approved rates by the Energy Regulatory Commission, geothermal generates the cheapest power (P5.11/kh) compared to all renewables like bio-mass (P6.63/kh); wind (P8.53/kh); solar (P9.68/kh) or even hydro (P5.90/kh). Power from coal-fired plant, by the way, costs P5.59/kh. (These rates do not include as yet, of course, other add-ons like transmission charges, taxes etc).

GEO THERMAL POWER — That's the reason why a few days ago, I was engrossed listening to Mindanao Affairs First Vice President Manuel

"Bobby" Orig, of Aboitiz Power, Inc. giving a briefing on the planned geothermal power plants at the Mt. Apo national park. It was done during our reunion at the quiet retirement house of Archbishop "Emeritus" Nanding Capalla at Catalanun Grande (on a promontory overlooking the city and the gulf) to mark his 39th episcopal ordination anniversary. His close friends, called "NANDING BOYS" were there to celebrate with him — although only a few of us (Nilo Claudio, Art Milan, Tony Ajero) among the cholesterol-watchers touched the luscious "lechon de leche" on the table.

Back to geothermal. It's not everywhere where one can generate steam from a geothermal plant to generate electricity. We need a volcano nearby where hot magma somewhere about 3 kilometers deep into the ground can heat up and boil underground water and produce steam whose force can turn turbines and produce electricity. It is a "hot pot theory" in action. It can be simply illustrated, per Bobby, by a boiling kettle (locally called a "takori") where after the water boils, steam escapes from the spout. That steam, if controlled and managed can be a force to produce cheap electricity. What is "harvested" by the drills and pipes from below consists of 20% steam and 80% water — the water component being injected back to the ground — so there are NO wastes left in the environment.

AP Renewables, Inc. (APR) an Aboitiz subsidiary, is planning to build two geothermal plants at 100MW each in two sights: at Mt Apo Talomo-Tico in Magpet, North Cotabato and at Mt. Sibulan at Kapatagan that straddles Sta.

PNoy squanders "daang matuwid" campaign

BY: BATAS MAURICIO

LIFE'S INSPIRATIONS: "... Flee the evil desires of youth and pursue righteousness, faith, love and peace, along with those who call on the Lord out of a pure heart..." (2 Timothy 2:22, the Holy Bible).

PNOSQUANDERED "DAANG MATUWID" CAMPAIGN: It would seem that President Aquino is fast squandering—if he has not fully squandered it yet—whatever beneficial legacy that he intended to give to the Filipino people through his world-famous "righteous governance" program.

If we are to judge his government now based on media and man-on-the-street reactions to what is happening in the Philippines today, it seems his program didn't do anything at all to improve the country and its people. I mean, everybody is still complaining about non-stop "increases" in many sectors of society, which have made life more bitter and more difficult, in a scale unprecedented in our history.

What are these "non-stop increases"? Well, the public is referring to increases in the prices of prime commodities such as rice and basic grocery items, in the prices of petroleum products and also of tuition fees, as well as increases in criminality, corruption, and even in the number of illegal foreigners entering the country. I don't know if Noynoy will be happy leaving this kind of a legacy after his term.

PNODY DIDN'T MEET EXPECTATIONS OF FILIPINOS: By and large, Noynoy has not measured up to the grand expectations he had raised as a presidential candidate in 2010. The hope he inspired when he was campaigning for the presidency, riding high on the tenets of a "daang matuwid" program, has all but dissipated, because every Filipino is now in agreement that there was really no "righteous governance", as nothing really changed, under his term.

Relative to the foregoing, may I re-publish what I wrote several years back: "In fact, the biggest challenge of any president who will serve the country for only a very brief period of six years is to discard grandiose illusions that he, by himself, can do something that will really benefit the nation as a whole, even if he happens to have come from so-called democracy icons, or from parents who are revered worldwide.

"Even if he is the president who has the vast powers of the government at his beck and call, he cannot do anything that will push the country and its people towards success and progress, as President Aquino maybe painfully finding out now.

DO A SOLOMON, PNOY! "Only God can do something, and the best legacy that any president can ever leave is to bring his people to a better understanding and familiarity of God so they can start being righteous and spiritually revived.

"Any president of this country who is aware of the six-year limitation of his term must strive to follow the example of the greatest human king of all, King Solomon, to enable him to rule effectively and successfully.

"When asked by God as to what he wanted after having been installed as king of the Israelites even when he was yet a minor, Solomon did not ask for wealth and riches, nor for the death of his enemies, but for knowledge to rule. God gave it to him, allowing him to become a king like no other."

City Hall Employees not Exempt from Smoke Tests

BAGUIO CITY – Mayor Mauricio Domogan has ordered private vehicles of city hall employees to undergo smoke emission tests Friday to conform with emission standards of the city government.

The order came this week after the City Environment and Parks Management Office (CEPMO) scheduled free emission testing for all vehicles in the city this June.

The move is to boost the city government's campaign in anti-smoke belching drive.

"All city hall employees should take this opportunity to have their vehicles tested for free," Domogan said.

Domogan stressed the number one contributor of air pollutants in the city comes from the transport sector.

"I hope that everyone will realize how serious the problem of air pollution is on our health and we all cooperate in the clean air campaign," he said.

The Roadside Inspection Testing and Monitoring Team (RITMT) conducted free emission testing last June 13, 18 and 20 along Harrison Road.

As per reports, there were at least 111 diesel vehicles who availed of the free emission tests with 37 failures and 74 passing the tests.

For gas and LPG fed vehicles, 29 had their vehicles tested with 6 failures and 23 passing the tests.

The RITMT is still hopeful that more vehicles will avail of the free emission testing scheduled on June 27 along Harrison Road.

Domogan earlier also ordered the testing of all city government vehicles for smoke belching in line with the clean air drive and as per mandate of Republic Act 8749 or the Clean Air Act.

Domogan said, "no one is exempted from the implementation of the clean air ordinance to ensure the good air quality of the city."

Under the program, any vehicle who does not pass the legal limit for smoke emission will not be allowed registration by the Land Transportation Office (LTO).

Vehicles who fail smoke emission testing would be required to have their engines fixed and undergo re-testing.

Only if the vehicle pass the smoke emission test will it be allowed to be registered with the LTO.

All vehicle owners who fail in roadside monitoring

Domogan Reminds Slaughter Establishments and Truck Owners to Settle Obligations

BAGUIO CITY - The Baguio City Market Authority (BCMA) met with the slaughter establishment and truck owners using the parking area to straighten out and settle issues especially unpaid rentals for the use of the area at the Mayor's Office last June 18.

Based on the records of the city treasurer's office, almost all occupants of slaughterhouse Compound are not paying their rentals with the city government for years.

Mayor Mauricio Domogan stressed that Slaughterhouse Compound is part of the sanitary reservation which is being administered by the city government here.

Previously, owners of the bunk houses within Slaughterhouse Compound were obliged to pay rental rate of P2/sq.m./day with the city government otherwise, they will not be allowed to continue to use their area.

"The policy of the city will cover all affected individuals in the said area to be fair with those who are complying with the rules and regulations of the city," said the mayor.

It was agreed upon during the meeting that the establishment owners will settle their obligations with the city until July 18.

On the other hand, truck owners, private vehicles and jitney owners were reminded of the parking rates: for motorcycles - P10 for the first 2 hours; P5 for each succeeding 2 hours, for light vehicles (jitneys, private cars and PUV) - P35 for the first 2 hours and P10 per additional hour, for trucks and buses without contract with the city of Baguio - P75 for the first 2 hours and P15 per additional hour, for overnight parking (small vehicles without Memorandum of Agreement with the city of Baguio) - P200 per night, and for overnight parking (trucks and buses without MOA with the city of Baguio) - P300 per night.

Mayor Domogan also reminded and urged them to observe cleanliness and proper sanitation in the parking area.

Jitney, PUV and truck owners were required to pay parking fees directly at the city treasurer's office, city hall on a monthly basis. Also, they will be entering into memorandum of agreement with the city government of

Typhoon Season Preps on as City Disaster Plan Remains Hanging

BAGUIO CITY – Mayor Mauricio Domogan on Wednesday said the city is doing its best to prepare for the typhoon season with contingency measures set in place to effectively handle emergency situations.

"No amount of preparation can keep up safe from the unpredictable intensity of typhoons like what happened with typhoon Yolanda but still we are doing our best to prepare," the mayor said.

Last Monday, the city council deferred action on the City Disaster Risk Reduction Management Plan due to questions on fund allocations, role of offices and organizational structures incorporated in the plan.

The plan is crucial as it serves as the city's guidebook in responding to calamities.
The calamity fund amounting to P71 million for disaster mitigation and response is also attached to the plan and cannot be accessed if there was no approved plan.

The mayor acknowledged the need to fast-track the adoption of the plan and directed the committee tasked to prepare the plan to address the concerns raised by the body to speed up the city council action.

As preventive measures against flooding and accidents, the mayor said he directed the city engineering office (CEO), the city building and architecture office (CBAO) and the barangays to speed up the clearing of all waterways in the city while he also asked the city environment and parks management office (CEPMO) to facilitate the cutting of dead trees to prevent loss of life and properties.

The office of the city social welfare and development (OCSWADO) readies evacuation and relief measures for those to be affected while the City Disaster Risk Reduction Manager Council (CDRRMC) will be on hand for the rescue and response operations.

The mayor said other concerned offices will be on hand to implement contingency measures in the event of the city's isolation due to calamities to ensure enough food supply, evacuation centers, infrastructure restoration and other needs.

Residents living in danger zones particularly in landslide and flood-prone and sinking areas were also asked to evacuate before the typhoons to ensure their own safety.

"With the unpredictability of our weather nowadays, nobody can say that he has prepared enough, but still being prepared is better than having not prepared at all," the mayor said. /A Refuerzo

Domogan Reminds

"Let us understand and help one an-tions of the city, if not, the city will be compelled to take the necessary actions," stressed Domogan. /Jho Arranz

Council has confirmed the Santo Tomas city property as the site for the city's Engineered Sanitary Landfill (ESL) Facility.

This however did not stop the city from exploring other alternative locations to set-up its ESL within the city and even outside as required by Republic Act 9003.

In 2011, due to the difficulty in putting-up the ESL, the Environmental Recycling System (ERS) was acquired to manage bio-degradable wastes being transported out of the city and converting the same to fertilizer for beneficial use.

The closure of the Irisan Facility in July 15, 2008 and the eventual hauling-out of waste impacted huge costs against the city government.

The city's Punong Barangays extended support in mitigating costs to the city by practically heeding calls of reduction of wastes at source and the mandatory segregation of wastes.

Domogan said, "the barangays still need to boost cooperation in the segregation process and to adhere to the garbage pick-up schedule being implemented by the city."

Presently, the General Services Office (GSO) is implementing a two-truck collection system for biodegradable and non-biodegradable wastes in residential barangays scheduled once or twice a week.

Once a day for commercial and institutional areas and twice a day for market and nearby growth areas.

The city generates 366 tons of solid waste per day, 122 tons are being hauled out, 30 tons are processed by the ERS and 214 tons are classified as recyclables and taken by waste pickers.

With the set-up of the new waste system, practically all waste will be processed either by the Central Materials Recovery Facility (MRF), the Waste-to-Energy facility, the Anaerobic Digester and the ERS.

A separate Health Care Waste Treatment Plant will also be set-up to process wastes coming from the city's hospitals and health centers.

Domogan said, "the Santo Tomas area which is owned by the city government is already identified as city needs area and should now be secured to avoid the influx of illegal settlers."/paul rillorta supporters before entering the building to meet with the court sheriff.

Revilla is one of three senators who have so far been accused of participating in a years-long scam in which many politicians allegedly embezzled hundreds of millions of dollars that should have been spent on development projects.

An enduring feature of the Philippines' chaotic brand of democracy has been brazen corruption by politicians, a major reason behind deep poverty in the Southeast Asian nation of 100 million people.

But the scam allegedly involving Revilla has been on such a scale that it has shocked a graft-weary public and dominated local media for months.

One of the other senators who has been indicted and facing arrest is Juan Ponce Enrile, a 90-year-old politician famous for his cunning who was defence minister during dictator Ferdinand Marcos's martial law regime.

The other is Jose "Jingoy" Estrada, the son of former president Joseph Estrada who was toppled in 2001 in a popular uprising triggered by his plundering of government coffers while in office.

All three senators have protested their innocence, insisting they were targeted simply because they were members of the political opposition.

But President Benigno Aquino's government has hailed the charges filed against them as a vital moment in its quest to fight corruption.

"This is a milestone," Justice Secretary Leila de Lima, who endorsed the case against the three, told AFP.

"We're accomplishing what some people said was a near impossible task: to have these big personalities who are perceived as untouchable finally prosecuted," she said.

De Lima said she expected arrest warrants issued against Estrada and Enrile by next week.

The case exploded last year when businesswoman Janet Lim-Napoles was accused of conniving with senators and congressmen in embezzling an estimated 10 billion pesos ($230 million dollars) in "pork barrel" funds allocated for development projects.

Lim-Napoles has also been detained, and Aquino's government has said many other politicians are expected to be charged.

Aquino won the presidency in 2010 on a promise to end deep-seated corruption in the Philippines.

Aquino had succeeded in having corruption charges filed against his predecessor, Gloria Arroyo.

She has been detained since October 2012 while being tried for charges unrelated to the "pork barrel" scam, but the case is expected to take many years./AFP News

Cruz, Digos and Davao City. Although each actual plant site needs only about 1,000 square meters of land, the size of an olympic-sized swimming pool, each concession will cover about 8,500 hectares. APR is an old hand in operating geothermal plants being owner/ operator of a 458MW geothermal plant in Makban, Laguna and a 289 MW geothermal plant in Tiwi, Albay.

We hope the project goes on stream quickly as we are all in bad need of power in Mindanao. When all requisites are done, the construction period to plant commissioning spans about 4 to 5 years. So let's all get going, folks!

DAVAO CANADIAN CHAMBER — Canadian Julian Payne who is national president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce (CANCHAM) called me from Manila to inform me that plans are afoot for the establishment of a Davao CanCham, which will promote Canadian-Philippines investments and goodwill. He will visit Davao within the next few days to meet those interested to be charter members.

WANTED BUYER — A plush facility that served as a learning center (for music and language) is being offered for sale. It is situated in a 1,500 square meter subdivision land in Guadalupe Village in Lanang. It consists of plush buildings with around 15 rooms that can be used as classrooms and around 21 lodging rooms complete with space for offices, kitchen, dining and other amenities. The reason why the facilities are for sale is because my lady friend who owns it plans on moving on with her life and career in Europe where she came from before settling in Davao City years ago. I promised to help her so email or call me @09178995377.

CRIMES OF PASSION — Over the past weeks, we have been shaken by several crimes committed in the city that may have elements of what we call "crimes of passion" like the murders of Davao Businessman "TY" Garcia and perhaps of Lawyer Emmanuel Acuna. Another businessman, Richard King was also shot dead but this is still being investigated. Jealous lovers or business rivalry or plain personal grudges plus availability of for-hire killers make a dangerous combination. This is a slap on our justice system where people with grievances no longer resort to.

GET'S CENTENNIAL — Today, we are marking the 100th birthday anniversary of the late Atty. GUILLERMO E. TORRES, SR. a Mindanaw pioneer in education, media, banking business and other endeavors. Among others, he founded the University of Mindanao, the Mindanao TIMES, the UMBN, the Mt. Apo Science Foundation and other early pioneering projects that have become fountainheads of development in Southern Philippines up to this day.

When I was a young newsman while studying law in the late 60s, I had the privilege of working for "GE" (while Mindanao TIMES was still a weekly). He was a quiet, low-key but passionate worker. He was a personal friend to Philippine presidents. (I remember him playing golf with President Marcos.) Unknown to many, he was one of the early migrants from Luzon who, even before the war, had believed that being in Mindanao, specially still rustic Davao, wToday, the fine traditions have been passed on and carried over to the next generation. I am sure "GE" is now at peace with the thought that the torch, still aflame, is ably borne high by his equally workaholic and illustrious "clone", DR. GUILLERMO "Willie" TORRES, Jr. with whom I also work as a peer and a friend.

On my part, I have mixed feelings — whether to feel proud or feel ancient — having spanned two generations of GEs, the father and the son. (jessdureza@gmail.com)/ ADVOCACY MINDANAW FOUNDATION, INC. The mayor noted the growing number of dialysis patients in a message welcoming the Philhealth's move to transfer to a more spacious office here.

Pending action on the proposal, Janice and other patients — including 191 of them at the BGHMC — are keeping their fingers crossed while figuring out how to fund their next treatment session.

Like those of many others, here orphaned family had long been drained — financially and emotionally — by her medical trials.

Her brother Jordan, 28 and works as a security guard, has a family of his own. Their brother Jake, 19, is in third year college, leaving their mother as the sole bread winner.

People who can help may ring up Janice's cellphone number 09193834890 or that of her mother — 09301224699.

Meanwhile, two members of Elementary Batch 1980 and High School Batch 1984 of Easter College recently came to the aid of their batch-mate, 46-year old Winston Kilongan who is on twice-a-week dialysis session at the BGHMC.

From Australia came P5000, sent by Irwin Patol through a batch-mate. From Malaysia, Shriley Bastasa also sent P8,000, of which P6,000 went to Winston and the remaining P2,000 used as "abuloy" for someone who recently died.

Winston is in the same boat as his maternal uncle, Angel Bangcawayan, who is also on twice-a-week treatment in the same medical center.

Another member of Easter School Elementary Batch '80, Lennon Cambod of Riuverside, Baguio City, also succumbed to kidney failure last Monday.

"Our family is indebted to all the people who supported Lennon in his treatment and helped ease our suffering over the loss of a son," his father, retired police officer Policarpio Cambod, said./ Ramon Dacawi.

Bayan Park to be in Full Operation

BAGUIO CITY - With the issuance of Administrative Order No. 067 of Mayor Mauricio Domogan, the City Environment and Parks Management Office (CEPMO) is mandated to implement the full operation of Bayan Park at Aurora Hill.

Bayan Park – “a park and a forest” is one of the city’s pride of place within the dense residential district of Baguio City.

Accordingly, the city government here has introduced several improvements and developments through landscaping, fencing and preservation plans at Bayan Park so as to sustain its prehistoric role as carbon sink, green space, a bio-diversity showcase and importantly a rest and recreation area.

It is recalled that before, Bayan Park was being managed by the Bayan Park Management authority, whose membership came from the 13 barangays surrounding the said park or Association of Barangay Councils of Aurora Hill (ABC AH) because one of administrator as co-chair.

Members of the said committee includes the city accountant, city budget officer, city treasurer, city engineer, city building official, city general services officer, division of city schools superintendent, Baguio City National High School principal, Pines City National High School principal, Executive Assistant V, Public Employment Services Office manager, lone district of Baguio City representative, ABC president, chairman of Baguio Tourism Council, city environment and parks management officer, city health officer, city sports development officer, BCPO city director, city supervising the issues besetting the said park since 2011 is the inadequate management responsibility.

Because of ambiguous management responsibility, the power supply of Bayan Park was cut off by the BENECO on March 2013 due to arrearages for 2011 unpaid bills, thus, rendering the whole park in total darkness.

"The park is a 24 hours parking space by residents near the area, a repair shop by enterprising individuals, a dumping site of used oil and other hazardous materials, a 24 hours graffiti arena for unscrupulous park goers and an opportunity venue for malicious activities. Thus, there is a need to mandate the CEPMO for its full operation, management and control of the said park," said Domogan.

In the order, CEPMO will craft interim operational guidelines cognizant of the following: hours of operation, parking policies, definition of activities within the park. CEPMO will reprogram its park's personnel to ensure that even
