Allié – Table/Stool
Design by Luca Nichetto

Allié is a two-in-one design — both a stool and an occasional table condensed into a small object with a ton of character. A totem of bold aesthetic, hands resting firmly on its hips.

Entirely moulded in polyurethane foam, the base and the top are linked together by two metal handles, delivering a robust structure that is also easier to move around. The matt material of the main body contrasts with the metal finish of the handles, while the contemporary palette of colours underscores the fun, playful spirit of a design that will follow you both inside and outside.

“I wanted to design a portable/multifunctional object that would have a lot of character and could be used both indoors and outdoors. So when I started thinking about it and picturing the design, the first image that popped into my head was my grandmother Silvana calling my name “Lucaaaaaa!!!!”. Growing up in Murano, I used to go out and play in the ‘calle’ (alley) near my grandparents’ house, and whenever my grandmother wanted me to come home for lunch or dinner, she would step outside, stand on the porch with her hands on her hips and call out my name... That was the first indoor/outdoor experience of my life. ‘Allié’ is a tribute to my grandmother, who loved me very much, and whom I loved just as
