MOTHER'S DEATH

Thirty-one Years Ago

Thirty-one years ago my heart,
Was filled with sorrow and woe.
It was on the fourth of November,
I can not forget but still remember.

Thirty-one years ago today,
My loving wife was taken from my side away;
Almost in a twinkling of an eye
Without one word or struggle she did die.

Thirty-one years ago today,
Just one hour after we did pray.
It was ten o'clock at night
When God called her home and claimed his right.

'Twas on that fourth November night
We sat and talked such things we thought right.
And prayed such things might come
our way,
And we could long together stay.

'Twas on that fourth November night
And oh the future looked so bright.
But suddenly, suddenly came the call
And from Mt. Pisgah's height we fall.

My heart was bleeding in deep despair
With eight small children in my care.
And no mother here to help along,
My God, My God, what shall I do.

All night long I could not weep
Because the wound was deep, too deep.

Until at last my brother came
And greeted me in Jesus name.
And there we sat at Jesus feet
Then we could together weep.

HOLY BIBLE
COMBINATION EDITION

The image shows the spine of an antique book, likely a Bible. The spine is made of a textured, yellowish-brown material, possibly leather or parchment, and is decorated with several horizontal bands. These bands consist of thin lines and wider, darker bands. The central text, "HOLY BIBLE" and "COMBINATION EDITION", is printed in a gold-colored, serif font. The spine is also adorned with four decorative diamond-shaped motifs, each containing a cross-like pattern, positioned between the horizontal bands. The spine shows signs of wear, particularly at the bottom where the material is peeling and damaged.
