OUR COVER ARTIST

Timothy Cummings,

represented by Catharine Clark Gallery in San Francisco and Nancy Hoffman Gallery in New York, journeyed to a French Quarter pied-à-terre over-looking Armstrong Park this past Fall, provided as part of a My Good Judy Residency. The My Good Judy Foundation provides residencies for artists seeking to produce a body of work or performance in New Orleans that addresses culture-making from an LGBTQ perspective. "Much of the inspiration for these portraits is from being in close proximity to the spirits of my favorite writers, Tennessee Williams and Truman Capote, they shaped my early adolescence. They offer a magical telling of the spirit of this place. The darkness and humor of life and the queer Southern aesthetic shows up in my work as well. Williams' 'garrulous grotesque,' replacing the bleak mundane of the world with a lush queer poetic eye for the shadows is part of my focus," Cummings said.

WELCOME SAINTS AND SINNERS!

“Saints and Sinners is a vital and important event in the unique way it stokes the queer artistic spirit. There is camaraderie at Saints and Sinners unlike any other literary event, which energizes writers. The panels are as exciting and entertaining as they are educating, with the perfect mixture of politics, literature, and provocation. Saints and Sinners truly feels like a family reunion. I left feeling renewed—and with a renewed dedication to writing and to LGBTQ literature.”

— Matthew Griffin, New Orleans, LA who teaches at Tulane University. For his recent novel Hide, Matthew was a Lambda Literary Award nominee; recipient of the 2017 Crook’s Corner Book Prize; and it was a Stonewall Honor Book.

agent. We drew on our collective experience with the Tennessee Williams/New Orleans Literary Festival and the Lambda Literary Foundation to start planning the SAS Fest.

From the beginning, New Orleans provided the perfect setting for such an undertaking. Our city has a long literary history of gay writers finding refuge and inspiration (and maybe romance) here—think of Truman Capote, John Rechy, Tennessee Williams, and John Waters. But more than that, the city’s freewheeling culture of acceptance has always welcomed LGBTQ visitors to dine, drink, and dance over such festivals as Mardi Gras and Southern Decadence.

While a great deal has changed nationally regarding gay rights since the first SAS event, the Festival’s interest in promoting and empowering those who bring LGBTQ issues to the forefront not only remains, but seems all the more relevant. In an era of tension and potential loss of hard-won rights, Saints + Sinners remains focused on creating a space of

We are so happy to be celebrating 15 years of the Saints and Sinners LGBTQ Literary Festival in New Orleans. If this is your debut at the Festival, we’ll make sure you feel right at home; and if you’ve been with us before, we are glad to have you back!

The first Saints and Sinners Literary Festival took place in May of 2003, as an innovative way to disseminate information about HIV/AIDS. It also brought the LGBTQ Literary Community into the mix. The literary arts have long cultivated hope and inspiration and continue to provide an avenue of understanding.

The idea for SAS evolved from a conversation with my partner, author Greg Herren, our good friend Jean Redmann (author and a director at NO/AIDS), and myself. Jean came up with the name “Saints and Sinners,” and connected me with the NO/AIDS Task Force, who became the initial fiscal acceptance. By fostering an environment where writers and publishers can network and discuss LGBTQ issues, SAS serves as inspiration for new writings that benefit not just the LGBTQ community, but the greater community at large.

From the very beginning we've brought the best and the brightest to share their knowledge and set the tone for the future. We proudly recognized our first Saints and Sinners Hall of Fame in 2003 with a stellar inaugural class composed of Dorothy Allison, Katherine V. Forrest, Felice Picano, and Patricia Nell Warren. Over the years, we have added to their ranks with award-winning writers and committed activists.

Our Festival Fiction anthology, begun in 2009, celebrates the best submissions we've received in our writing contests, ranging from work by established authors to debut writers, and is the perfect souvenir of the Festival, a sampling of writing by participants.

In 2013, Lambda Award-winning author Rob Byrnes generously established the Saints and Sinners Emerging Writers Award, a cash prize to acknowledge and support developing talent and to further substantiate the mission and goals of Saints and Sinners. Past winners have included Alexander Chee, Saeed Jones, and Julian Rich.

And this being New Orleans, over the years we've partied with everyone from Pulitzer Prize winner Michael Cunningham, Jake Shears, whose memoir Boys Keep Swinging, comes out next month, and bestselling authors Val McDermid, Christopher Rice and Edmund White. We've enjoyed gay history walking tours of the French Quarter with Frank Perez and erotica readings organized by Ron Suresha at the Phoenix.

It has been inspiring and energizing to work on SAS because of the incredible talent in our community. Each year returning participants renew Festival friendships, and welcome new writers who enliven the program with their exciting works. The energy, camaraderie, and new ideas that come out of each gathering are addictive. I'm addicted to Jeff Mann and Carol Rosenfeld who have come back every year!

Whether you're a Saint or a Sinner – and aren't we all a little of both? – we know you've had a good time over the past 15 years. Now, on to the next 15...

SAINTS AND SINNERS FRENCH QUARTER WALKING TOUR

This leisurely stroll through the French Quarter focuses on New Orleans' enchanting past with an emphasis on the neighborhood's queer history and its rich literary heritage. See where writers lived and wrote, and learn about the incredible contributions lesbians and gay men have made to the city over its nearly 300-year-old history. Other highlights include Jackson Square, Free People of Color, the French Market, the birth of jazz, Voodoo, and a wide diversity of architecture. The tour is guided by long-time French Quarter resident Frank Perez, a local historian and professional tour guide who has written two books about French Quarter history. Approximately 2 hours, $25. Tour also available Thursday, March 22 @ 2 PM

INQUIRING MINDS: PUBLICITY WORKSHOP FOR AUTHORS

Publicist Michele Karlsberg discusses strategies for getting the word out and creating more visibility for you as an author. In today's market we practically have unlimited power and reach. Book reviews, blogs, vlogs, virtual book tours, book clubs, self-publishing, booksellers and more are covered in this informative session.
Hotel Monteleone, Cabildo Room, Included in SAS Weekend Registration.

2 PM – 4 PM

Looking for a publisher? PITCH IT!

Registration has closed for this event

For the 15th anniversary, we've brought back a Festival favorite session of scheduled pitch meetings with Bold Strokes Books. Senior Editor Sandy Lowe will be taking ten minute pitch meetings between 2 and 4 p.m. Interested participants submitted book basics, a one page summary, and a brief author bio before their scheduled pitch. We hope to continue this at the 2019 Festival and would welcome other publishers that would like to participate.
Hotel Monteleone, Ursuline Room, Pre-registration was required.

2:30 PM

OPEN-GENRE WORKSHOP

LANIA KNIGHT: SEX AND THE APOCALYPSE—WRITING THE FUTURE AND NON-NORMATIVE SEX

In this fun open-genre workshop, we'll combine the best of all possible writing exercises: sex and world-building. We'll look at examples of sex and writing, drawing on a range of writers like Ursula Le Guin, Kristen Roupenian, Lydia Yuknavitch, Roy McFarlane, David Foster Wallace, and Sharon Olds. Then we'll push fast forward. It's the future: will we have sex with robots? with words? with ourselves? Perhaps the planet will be so full—so full of humans and their mess—a latent gene in homo sapiens regulating desire and arousal will switch on and we'll all want too much sex, or too little. However you imagine the future, join us for a few hours of writing about the human body, future tense.

Hotel Monteleone, Cabildo Room, Included in SAS Weekend Registration. Free Session to General Public.

ONE ARM

Directed by Augustin J Correro

One Arm is Moisés Kaufman's adaptation of a screenplay by Tennessee Williams, based on his short story of the same title. A navy veteran and boxer who lost his arm in a car accident must resort to hustling on Canal Street to make his living. When a john pushes him too far, though, he finds himself on death row. He escapes into the correspondence of his past clients for spiritual salvation until his number is up. Produced by the Tennessee Williams Theatre Company of New Orleans in conjunction with the TW/NOLF.

General Admission $25. Students/Seniors/Theater Professionals: $20.

Zeitgeist Multi-Disciplinary Arts Center, 1618 Oretha Castle Haley Boulevard.

FRIDAY, MARCH 23

10:30 AM — Writer's Craft Session

JAFFE COHEN: WRITING FOR TV AND FILM—HOW OUR TWO-HOUR SCREENPLAY WAS TURNED INTO EIGHT HOURS OF GREAT TELEVISION

When it comes to a career in show business, if you persist, every ten years something wonderful will happen! In this informative and fun workshop, Jaffe Cohen, pioneering stand-up comedian, (Funny Gay Males) will speak about how he and his writing partner, Michael Zam, wrote the screenplay Best Actress just for fun, how it miraculously became one of the hottest un-produced scripts of the year, how they sold it to Ryan Murphy to make as a feature, and how, together, they turned it into Feud: Bette and Joan, an award winning TV show on FX network, that's changing the way Hollywood thinks of casting mature actresses. Along with some great insights about Hollywood, Jaffe—currently teaching screenwriting at Purchase College in upstate NY—will discuss screenwriting technique (the Hero's Journey) and how he's now modifying this approach to write for television.

The Historic New Orleans Collection, 533 Royal Street, $25.

FRIDAY, MARCH 23

1 PM — Writer's Craft Session

MARTIN SHERMAN: THE LIVING ART OF THEATRE

Why is a play a work of living art in a way that a piece of literature is not necessarily, or sometimes necessarily not? How does a story reveal to its author that it must be told on the stage—not in a film or a novel? How do playwrights make the internal lives of their characters available to a live audience? These and many other aspects of being a playwright will be discussed when American Theatre Magazine founder Jim O'Quinn engages in conversation with master American Playwright Martin Sherman, award-winning author of Bent, Rose, The Boy from Oz, Gently Down the Stream, and the screenplays Mrs. Henderson Presents, Alive and Kicking, and Tennessee Williams' The Roman Spring of Mrs. Stone.

The Historic New Orleans Collection, 533 Royal Street, $25.

FRIDAY, MARCH 23

2:30 PM — Writer's Craft Session

TELLING YOUR TRUTHS: A CONVERSATION WITH DONNA BRAZILE

New Orleans native, political consultant, and writer Donna Brazile has long been a star on the national political scene; she was the first African-American to run a presidential campaign. In Cooking with Grease: Stirring the Pots in America, she talks about her New Orleans roots and the evolution of her political style. Now, in her bestseller, Hacks: The Inside Story of the Break-ins and Breakdowns that Put Donald Trump in the White House, she revisits the 2016 election. Join her for an illuminating and wide-ranging interview with celebrated author and New Orleans historian Patricia Brady.

The Historic New Orleans Collection, 533 Royal Street, $25.

Beautiful Dreamer Press

Channeling Morgan by Lewis DeSimone

Every writer needs a voice. For Derick Sweetwater, it's usually someone else's. But when he gives up ghostwriting to become a "serious novelist," he discovers being true to himself is harder than he imagined. It will take facing down Hollywood hypocrites, New Age conspiracies, literary conventions, and his own demons—all with the help of a spectacular drag queen and a spectral literary guide.

"As a send-up of publishing, literary workshops, Hollywood hypocrisy, and Manhattan A-list Gays, Channeling Morgan makes compulsive reading—come for the story, but stay for the truth."

—Keith John Glaeske, Out In Print

Gay Zoo Day: Tales of Seeking and Discovery by Mike McClelland

Eight stories follow uncertain voyagers as they seek a way out of the constraints of their time and place. Using the map of the world to explore the map of the heart, McClelland drives his characters to their inevitable destinations across landscapes of love, death, violence, ambition, and sex. All find more than what they were looking for.

"Urgent, sometimes sordid, yet always attuned to the smallest gestures and details."

—Ben Tanzer, author of Be Cool

Wallaçonia by David Pratt

All Jim Wallace ever wanted was to be normal. Now he is turning eighteen and he feels it's time to be the "upright and sterling" young man everyone expects him to be. The first step in that will be to lose his virginity, and his girlfriend and trusted confidant, Liz, is willing to help. But then his neighbor seeks his help running his bookstore during the holiday rush, and Jim finds an even more welcoming haven there.

"... an LGBT coming-of-age novel that preserves the messiness and uncertainty of youth in the clever, funny voice of its protagonist."

—Kirkus Reviews

Not Just Another Pretty Face edited by Louis Flint Ceci, photographs by Dot

The stories, poems, and essays in this collection all spring directly from photographs of go-go boys. But these are not ordinary photographs. Whimsical, haunting, satiric, playful, ominous—these young men are not mere icons, but stories waiting to be told. Not Just Another Pretty Face looks beyond the archetype, beneath the skin, for sudden revelations.

"All of the eroticism, mystery, creativity, and smoldering desire embodied by adult male exotic dancers comes to life. . . . This collection, which embraces the beauty of the male body, . . . celebrates the work of dancers and the rewards for those who watch and fantasize."

—Jim Piechota, The Bay Area Reporter

With Fingers on the Tips of My Words: Poems by M. J. Arcangelini

Foreword by Patrick Califia

Extraordinary poems about life, death, family, and fetish by the Northern California poet praised by James Broughton for his "maturity, force, felicity of phrase, and tenderness of feeling."

"Arcangelini situates his observations about gay desire . . . within the natural world of changing seasons, altering phases of the moon, and the destruction wrought by great storms and fires. A valuable addition to the growing body of well-written gay male verse."

—from the foreword by Patrick Califia

Hard Bitz by Don Edward Flint Preface by Trebor Healey

Posthumous poems by Marin poet Vivekan Don Flint, collected and edited by Louis Flint Ceci

"I first met Vivekan when he was teaching yoga, and soon learned he worked at a cutting-edge center for the healing arts out past Bolinas. And then on top of all that, I learned he wrote poetry as well. I was impressed with the life he'd built for himself. But it was the poetry, above all else, that made us run away together."

WELCOME PARTY

FRIDAY, MARCH 23, 2018 • 6:30 PM – 8:30 PM

STROLL BACK INTO HISTORY...

The house was built in 1826 by architect Francois Correjolle for a wealthy auctioneer by the name of Joseph Le Carpentier. In 1833 the house was sold to John Ami Merle who later became the Swiss Consul to New Orleans. His wife, Anais Merle designed the House's first parterre garden. General Pierre Gustav Toutant Beauregard rented the home with his two sons in 1965 upon his return from the Civil War in late 1865.

The last resident of the B-K House was the author Frances Parkinson Keyes. In the "Authors Note" of her book, Madame Castel's Lodger, she gives her own account of how she became fortuitously involved with the Beauregard House.

"My original tenancy of Beauregard House was apparently a happy accident. I stumbled on it when I was searching for temporary headquarters and nothing seemed available. But I have long since ceased to believe that such occurrences are accidental; I am convinced that they are part of a pattern in which a power higher than ours has had a Hand."

10 AM

LESBIAN ROMANCE IN THE 21ST CENTURY: CH-CH-CHANGES

Romance is a resilient and ever evolving genre. But what of the lesbian romance novel? Is lesbian romance a distinct genre, or are our books really just romance novels—uninflected—where girl gets girl, instead of girl gets boy? How has lesbian romance changed in this century, and how does it continue to change to embrace changing queer sensibilities and to reflect our intersectional identities?

QUEER FICTION AS SOCIAL COMMENTARY

How do LGBTQ characters make their way in a world that is always changing, but not always welcoming? This struggle makes queer fiction a form that is always socially aware, passionately so. In his novel, Hide, Matthew Griffin's long-loving couple makes their way against a changing social background; Nick White's characters in How to Survive a Summer struggle through a "gay conversion" summer camp; Felice Picano's work has long chronicled the changing backdrop of gay life, and Gar McVey-Russell's Sin Against the Race portrays a young African-American gay man's struggle to find his place in the community.

TO TELL THE TRUTH: THE MAKINGS OF A GREAT MEMOIR

Memoirs hold a very important place in the world of queer literature. They often remind us of who we are, where we have been, and where we are going. However, making a memoir exceptional poses unique challenges. A panel of successful writers will discuss the ways in which they approach memoir-writing. They will explore the techniques that work for them and give us insights into their writing process. They will examine the ways in which truth, structure, language, and personal history play a role in their work.

HISTORICAL FICTION: ONCE UPON A TIME

Historical fiction is always seductive in its research phase—we all love the fascinating details that we discover. But how do we write historical fiction with ease and grace, creating a world for the reader that doesn't sound like a textbook? Vanda and Cheryl A. Head, who write about World War II, Judith Katz, who draws readers into the world of Jewish Buenos Aires at the turn of the 20th century, and Jeff Mann, who writes about his native West Virginia's history—these writers illuminate that turn from the research archive to the pages of fiction.

WE'VE BEEN THROUGH THIS BEFORE: BABY BOOMER LESBIANS TALK ABOUT WRITING, RESISTANCE, AND RELEVANCE

How did the literary and political contributions of poets Audre Lorde and Adrienne Rich break ground and shape what we now call queer literature in the 21st Century? How did the work of the late Pat Parker and Gloria Anzaldua, as well as living authors such as Jewelle Gomez, Cherie Moraga, Dorothy Alison, Sarah Schulman, Elana Dykewomon and groundbreaking publishers such as Nancy K. Bereano, carry it on? Lesbians over fifty discuss the vibrant and essential lesbian writing, publishing, and resisting world of the '70's, '80's, and '90s and how it can lead us forward today.

LEAVE 'EM LAUGHING:

WRITING AND PERFORMING HUMOR

We are always grateful to the writers who make us laugh, and these four funny folks will take us into the process of how they do it. Jaffe Cohen is (among many other things) a stand-up performer who writes his own material; Beth Burnett specializes in romantic comedy; Lewis DeSimone knows the hilarity inherent in a good pair of heels; and J.R. Greenwell's humor draws on drag and sissy culture. How does each writer transmute the humor of life into surefire entertainment on the page? Come and find out!

The dos and don'ts for lesbian, gay, bisexual, and transgender people – and anyone else – who is considering marriage.

Leading gay rights attorney Elizabeth F. Schwartz spells out the range of practical considerations couples should address before tying the knot, and explores the rights marriage provides – and those it does not. Covering parental rights, estate planning, pre- and post-nuptial agreements, finances, and much more, Before I Do is a crucial handbook that is relevant for all couples. After all, just because you can get married doesn't mean you should.

PANEL AND READING SERIES SCHEDULE

SUNDAY, MARCH 25, 2018

Registration/Information: 9 AM Hotel Monteleone Mezzanine

10 AM

HUMAN RIGHTS: THE STRUGGLE CONTINUES

This panel brings together writers and activists who have been on the frontlines of the human rights struggle for years to talk about gains and losses. Calvin Trillin's civil rights journalism has been collected in Jackson, 1964: And Other Dispatches from Fifty Years of Reporting on Race in America. Elizabeth F. Schwartz served as co-counsel on the case challenging Florida's same-sex marriage ban brought by the National Center for Lesbian Rights on behalf of six same-sex couples seeking the right to marry (Pareto v. Ruvin). Loyola University professor Uriel Quesada is the author of eight books of fiction, including Mar Canibal (2016) and editor of Queer Brown Voices: 14 Personal Narratives of Latina/o Activism. In her National Book Award-nominated debut novel, author and civil rights advocate Margaret Wilkerson Sexton puts a very human visage on the plight of three generations of a black family in New Orleans. Moderated by Tania Tetlow, Chief of Staff and Senior VP of Tulane University and Felder-Fayard Professor of Law, whose research focuses on unconstitutional race and gender discrimination against the victims of crimes. Sponsored in part by the Ethel & Herman L. Midlo Center for New Orleans Studies at the University of New Orleans.

Hotel Monteleone, Queen Anne Ballroom.

10 AM

OUT OF THIS WORLD: FANTASY, SCI FI AND HORROR

Speculative fiction can set a writer free to explore life without mundane limitations. But great spec fic comes with demands of its own! What challenges and opportunities come with giving established myths or theories your own unique spin? Christian Baines brings paranormal terrors to sunny Sydney in his urban fantasy The Orchard of Flesh. Lania Knight's next book Devoured is a science fiction novel set in the American Midwest. Eric Andrews-Katz's fantasy Tartarus takes us into a world of Greek gods. Meanwhile, Jeff Mann stakes his claim on the vampire genre in his latest book Insatiable.

GET INSPIRED, STAY INSPIRED

We all know the thrill of that first spark of inspiration, but how to nourish it into a flame? How to sustain that glowing energy over a long career? Some do it by looking for role models, others by mentoring or teaching the next generation, getting involved in their literary communities, gathering at festivals like Saints and Sinners. We hear from Andrew Holleran, Jeffrey Round, and Justin Torres about their sources of inspiration, and Kathleen Archambeau talks about being inspired by the subjects in her book Pride and Joy: LGBTQ Artists, Icons and Everyday Heroes.

"IF THE WRITING IS HONEST": PLAYWRIGHTS DISCUSS THEIR PASSIONS, THEIR POLITICS, AND THEIR PEOPLE

Tennessee Williams wrote: "If the writing is honest it cannot be separated from the [person] who wrote it." The three playwrights on this panel are well known for exploring and representing gay and lesbian characters, their stories, and their history. Jewelle Gomez (Bones and Ash, Waiting for Giovanni), Moisés Kaufman (Gross Indecency: The Three Trials of Oscar Wilde, 33 Variations), and Martin Sherman (The Boy from Oz, Bent) will discuss the impulses and influences behind their plays, the writers and performers who inspire them, and the prevalence and diversity of plays by and about gay men and lesbians in contemporary theater.

MARRIAGE MINEFIELD WITH ELIZABETH SCHWARTZ

Now that we've secured the nationwide freedom to marry, we will have a decidedly unromantic discussion about marrying. The author of Before I Do: A Legal Guide to Marriage, Gay & Otherwise, an attorney who has been in the trenches working with LGBT families for over 20 years, will explore the automatic rights marriage brings. Death and divorce, income taxes and government benefits based on household income – these are just a few of the potential minefields to consider when tying the knot. Bring your questions and concerns and we promise not to tell your other half what was said! This will be the cheapest lawyer's time you'll ever come by.

YOUR GENRE—COMFORT ZONE OR STICKING POINT? HOW TO SOLVE THIS LITERARY MYSTERY

Genre writers all know the pleasure of mastering a craft, whether it's a lesbian romance or a killer mystery. But over the long haul, does that genre become too easy a way for others to characterize your writing and pigeonhole your career? When does a mystery become a literary thriller? These four novelists—Cheryl A. Head, Greg Herren, Jeffrey Round, and Ali Vali—talk about the challenges of finding your genre, then transcending it.

CREATING EXTRAORDINARY LITERARY CHARACTERS

Long after the last page is turned, a literary character stays with us, taking up a place in our minds and hearts. These writers discuss building characters who have staying power – the searching young men in the critically-acclaimed works of Justin Torres, Nick White and Martin Hyatt; the strong, complicated women in Lauren Sanders' exciting literary thrillers and Hilary Zaid's intelligent examination of history. These character-driven authors will reveal how they keep us turning the pages and how they create unforgettable characters.

CREATIVE NONFICTION: MAKING IT REMARKABLE

A true story makes for compelling reading, and yet, we often pay it our highest compliment by saying, "It reads like a novel." These authors talk about the challenges and pleasures of making their diverse subjects into page-turning reading. Barrie Jean Borich writes about the human body; Clayton Delery chronicled the Upstairs Lounge Fire and the murder of Fernando Rios; memoirist Melanie Hoffert is now working on a book about water; and Gillian Rodger is a scholar of theater history.

TRANSGRESSIVE, SACRED, AND UNIVERSAL: IS POETRY INHERENTLY QUEER?

"Queer," which entered the language of sexuality and gender as a derogatory term, has come to be embraced by many in the community. If, in its many, various uses "queer" has come to mean transgressive, revolutionary, and in defiance of dualistic cultural norms, then is poetry an inherently queer art form? Throughout history and across the globe, poetry has proven its power as a force for resistance; sacred, ancient, and communal, it represents our most effective antidote to othering, to silencing. This panel will explore, through readings and discussion, the connections between "queerness," a term that evades definition, and poetry—a phenomenon that resists simplification, that perpetuates mystery, that gives voice to the collective.

THE GREAT GAY READING LIST

Building on the fun we had at last year's panel about recommended reading, let's try to put together a list of fiction and nonfiction titles that would be valuable to a young gay reader. Rubyfruit Jungle? Dancer from the Dance? Lesbian/Woman? The Joy of Gay Sex? Panelists Elana Dykewomon, Andrew Holleran, J.M. Redmann, and Nick White and moderator Susan Larson contribute their faves, but bring your own lists and be ready to talk about them. We'll put it all together in a list that will be published in next year's festival fiction volume for us all to keep.

Finish out the Festival by joining us as we honor outstanding members of our literary community. Wrap up the weekend with old and new friends, and pass one more good time at the Saints and Sinners Literary Festival.

We'll announce the winner of our sixth annual Saints and Sinners Emerging Writer Award, sponsored by Rob Byrnes. This award acknowledges an exceptional debut work or an author establishing a body of work that is propelling them to the next stage of their literary career. We'd like to congratulate our four finalists for their original and compelling works:

Peter Gajdics is honored for his memoir The Inheritance of Shame. Told over a period of decades, the story shows us the damaging repercussions of conversion therapy and reminds us that resilience, compassion, and courage to speak the truth exist within us all.

Cassie Pruyn is recognized for her debut poetry collection Lena, where she skillfully tells a story of love, heartbreak, and loss, bringing new meaning and understanding to the elegy. Lauren Sanders provides readers a literary spy thriller and love story that shifts between New York and Israel. The Book of Love and Hate is a page-turning novel of international espionage, white-collar crime, and failed Olympic aspirations.

And Nick White for his collection of short stories Sweet & Low, which was praised by the Washington Post as "Tennessee Williams...transposed to the twenty-first-century South." He tackles issues of masculinity, identity, and place, with a sharp eye for social commentary and a singular handling of character.

We'll induct this year's members into the Saints and Sinners Hall of Fame. We'd like to congratulate them and acknowledge their dedication to LGBT literature. They have all shown their passion for our literary community through various avenues including writing, performing, promotion, publishing, editing, teaching, bookselling, and volunteerism. Through their work, they have all helped to ensure that the written work from the LGBT community will continue to have an outlet, and that people will have access to books and plays that will help dispel stereotypes, alleviate isolation, and provide resources for personal wellness.

Before Eric Andrews-Katz moved to Seattle in 1994, nothing much happened. Since then he has authored the "Agent Buck 98" spy-series (The Jesus Injection and Balls & Chain), and the award winning, TARTARUS (all from Bold Strokes Books). His work can also be found in several anthologies, including Best Gay Love Stories 2015, and the Saints & Sinners Anthologies (2014 & 2015). An expanded list of his work can be found at: www.EricAndrewsKatz.com

Kathleen Archambeau has been an advocate for the LGBTQ community since 1992. She wrote a regular column for one of the longest-running queer newspapers in the country. An award-winning writer and journalist, publications include: Climbing the Corporate Ladder in High Heels and Pride & Joy: LGBTQ Artists, Icons and Everyday Heroes, with a foreword by Academy Award-winning screenwriter Dustin Lance Black and featuring Richard Blanco, Carolina De Robertis, Emma Donoghue, Tony Kushner and Colm Tóibín. Please visit her at: www.kathleenarchambeau.com

Christian Baines has written on travel, theatre, and various aspects of gay life, factual and fictional. Some of his thoughts have spawned novels, including queer paranormal series The Arcadia Trust, and Puppet Boy, which was a finalist for the 2016 Saints and Sinners Emerging Writer Award. Born in Australia, he now travels the world whenever possible, living, writing, and shivering in Toronto, Canada on those odd occasions he can't find his passport.

Tom Baker is a graduate of the College of William & Mary. He enjoyed a successful career in the advertising world, winning many awards for the ads and commercials he produced. He is the author of three novels and a book of short stories. His 2014 novel, Paperwhite Narcissus, was recently catalogued by the Library of Congress. His most recent novel, Green, was published by Lethe Press in September 2017 - "A sharp and intriguing tale about a gay draftee in the '60s" - Kirkus Reviews. Tom is a member of a creative writing workshop that meets weekly in Malibu. He writes full time and lives in a tree house in Santa Monica Canyon.

Barrie Jean Borich is the author of Apocalypse, Darling, forthcoming in 2018 (Ohio State University Press/Machete Series in Literary Nonfiction). Her memoir Body Geographic (University of Nebraska Press/American Lives Series 2013) won a Lambda Literary Award and Kirkus called the book "an elegant literary map that celebrates shifting topographies as well as human bodies in motion." Borich's previous book, My Lesbian Husband (Graywolf 2000) won the ALA Stonewall Book Award. She is an associate professor at Chicago's DePaul University, where she edits Slag Glass City, a journal of the urban essay arts.

Jericho Brown is the recipient of a Whiting Writers Award and fellowships from the Radcliffe Institute for Advanced Study at Harvard University and the National Endowment for the Arts. His first book, Please (New Issues 2008), won the American Book Award, and his second book, The New Testament (Copper Canyon 2014), won the Anisfield-Wolf Book Award and was named one of the best books of the year by Library Journal, Coldfront, and the Academy of American Poets. He is an associate professor in English and creative writing at Emory University in Atlanta.

Chris Bull is co-founder and editorial director of Q.Digital, which owns and operates both LGBTQ Nation, GayCities and Queerty (queerty.com). Bull is author of Perfect Enemies: The Battle Between The Religious Right and the Gay Rights Movement and editor of Come Out Fighting: A Century of Essential Writing on Gay & Lesbian Liberation, While the World Sleeps: Writing from the First Twenty Years of the Global AIDS Plague.

Beth Burnett is the Director of Education and a teacher with the GCLS writing academy. Beth teaches women's empowerment classes, runs a Lansing women's networking group, and works for the Library of Michigan. She has published four books, including the recently released Eating Life. After an MA in Creative Writing, she is back in grad school for a second time, this time for an MA in marketing and new media. She is also working on her fifth romantic comedy and a self-help book for women. She loves to crochet, draw badly with colored pencils, and take pictures of her cat. In her spare time, Beth reads, walks with her geriatric dog, and silently judges people who don't use the Oxford comma.

Rob Byrnes is the Lambda Literary Award-winning author of six novels, including When the Stars Come Out, The Night We Met, and the Grant Lambert/Chase LaMarca series of crime capers. His short stories and essays have been included in several anthologies, including Equality: What Do You Think When You Think Of Equality?, Best Gay Romance 2014, and Men of the Mean Streets. He was inducted into the Saints & Sinners Hall of Fame in 2016. A native of Rochester, NY, he now lives in "Manhattan-adjacent" West New York, NJ, with his partner, Brady Allen. Visit him at www.RobByrnes.net.

C.D. Cain is a transplant to South Georgia from Louisiana. She is the author of the Chambers of the Heart series, including When It Raines, It Pours and After the Storm. Her short story "Ten Hours" was published in A Heart Well Traveled: Tales of Long Distance Romance and Unlikely Outcomes (Vol. 1). Beyond writing, she enjoys spending time outdoors especially if this is on her porch with a nice smooth red. She always loves to hear from her readers and is available through: Twitter (@cdcain1019), Facebook (C.d. Cain), Goodreads (Cdcain), email (cdcain1019@yahoo.com).

Louis Flint Ceci's poetry has been published in Colorado North Review, read on-air at PRI and the BBC, and appeared in Impossible Archetype. His short stories have appeared in Diseased Pariah News, Trikone, Jonathan, and in the anthologies Queer and Catholic; Gay City Volume 4: At Second Glance; Saints+Sinners 2017: New Fiction from the Festival; and Best Gay Erotica, Vol 4. His first novel, Comfort Me, was published in 2009. In 2000, he launched Beautiful Dreamer Press, which has published several volumes of poetry and fiction, including this year's Wallaçonia by David Pratt, Gay Zoo Day by Mike McClelland and Channeling Morgan by Lewis DeSimone.

Jaffe Cohen is an award-winning screenwriter, author, and stand-up comic whose screenplay, Best Actress, co-written with Michael Zam, was the basis for Feud: Bette and Joan, starring Jessica Lange and Susan Sarandon. He was nominated for two Emmy awards for co-creating the show and co-writing the pilot, along with a Writer's Guild nomination for Best Writing in a Limited Series. The show was also nominated for Golden Globe, Critic's Choice and Satellite Awards. With his writing partner Michael Zam, Jaffe is developing The Code for the BBC; Kate about the secret life of Katherine Hepburn; Brenda with Oscar-winning director, Paolo Sorrentino, and a musical biopic about Mama Cass for Chrissy Metz (currently starring in This Is Us). Jaffe also has the distinction of being one of the first openly gay stand-up comedians on national television from his groundbreaking appearance on Comic Strip Live in 1990.

Brenda Currin, Obie Award (My Sister in This House). Films: Out of Blue (2018 release starring Patricia Clarkson), In Cold Blood, The World According to Garp, Reds, Taps, and cult classic C.H.U.D. Locally: Dividing the Estate, To Kill a Mockingbird, Orpheus Descending, Suddenly Last Summer. NYC, recently: Gun Country, Mr. Toole, Orpheus Descending.

Widely performed: Sister and Miss Lexie & A Fire Was in My Head adapted from stories of Eudora Welty. Brenda is a member of the Saints and Sinners Hall of Fame.

Clayton Delery is most recently the author of Out for Queer Blood: The Murder of Fernando Rios and the Failure of New Orleans Justice (Exposit 2017). His previous book, The Upstairs Lounge Arson (McFarland 2014) was named Book of the Year by the Louisiana Endowment for the Humanities—the first time an LGBT-themed book has received this designation. Clayton Delery has also contributed chapters to the anthologies Queering the South, Fashionably Late, and My Gay New Orleans.

Lewis DeSimone is the author of Channeling Morgan, Chemistry, and The Heart's History. His work has appeared in Chelsea Station, Christopher Street, James White Review, Glitterwolf, Jonathan, and a number of anthologies, including My Diva: 65 Gay Men on the Women Who Inspire Them, The Other Man, and Not Just Another Pretty Face. He lives in San Francisco, where he is working on his next novel.

Melissa Flournoy has earned the reputation as a saint and a sinner over thirty years of political service, social activism and community engagement. Melissa started her career working in community serving nonprofits. In 1991, Melissa was elected to the House of Representatives and in 1995 she was defeated in a runoff for the state senate. Over the last 30 years, Melissa has been an advocate for children, families, LGBTQ. Melissa founded the LOUISIANA Association of Nonprofit Organizations (LANO), served as Director of the Rand Gulf States Policy Institute and served as State Director for Planned Parenthood Gulf Coast. Melissa is board chair of LOUISIANA Progress and active in Democratic politics.

Peter Gajdics is an award-winning writer whose essays, short memoir and poetry have appeared in, among others, The Advocate, New York Tyrant, The Gay and Lesbian Review/Worldwide, Cosmonauts Avenue, and Opium. He is a recipient of a writer's grant from Canada Council for the Arts, a fellowship from The Summer Literary Seminars, and an alumni of Lambda Literary Foundation's "Writers Retreat for Emerging LGBT Voices." The Inheritance of Shame: A Memoir is Peter's first book. He lives in Vancouver, Canada.

Jewelle Gomez is the author of seven books including the double Lambda Literary Award-winning vampire novel, The Gilda Stories, in print continuously since 1991. Her adaptation of the book for the stage, Bones and Ash, toured thirteen U.S. cities. Waiting for Giovanni, her play about James Baldwin, premiered in 2011. Her newest play, Leaving the Blues, is about singer/songwriter Alberta Hunter and premiered in fall 2016.

J.R. (John) Greenwell's new novel In a Whirl of Delusion (Chelsea Station Editions) humorously explores the questionably competitive world of drag through the eyes and adventures of a young, quirky Southern sissy. JR, an author and playwright from Cox's Creek, Kentucky, was a finalist for the 2014 Saints & Sinners Emerging Writer Award for his debut collection of short fiction Who the Hell is Rachel Wells? His memoir Teased Hair and The Quest for Tiaras can be found on his website: www.jrgreenwellmga79.com.

Matthew Griffin is a graduate of Wake Forest University and the Iowa Writers' Workshop. He has taught writing at the University of Iowa and University of Louisiana at Lafayette, and he worked for several years as Assistant to the Director of Highlander Research and Education Center, a renowned hub of grassroots organizing for social justice throughout the South and Appalachia. His first novel Hide was the winner of the 2017 Crook's Corner Book Prize, a Stonewall Honor Book, and longlisted for the PEN/Bingham Prize for debut fiction. His writing has appeared in The Guardian, Granta, Electric Literature, and elsewhere. He was born and raised in North Carolina and now lives with his husband and too many pets in New Orleans, Louisiana, where he teaches at Tulane University.

By day, Mary Griggs is a non-profit management consultant and a political activist. By night, she writes. Whenever she can, she takes advantage of all the amenities New Orleans has to offer, especially the food! She is the author of four lesbian romance and speculative novels, published by Bella Books. Her website at www.marygriggs.com and her food blog can be found at www.mouthbrothels.com

Cheryl A. Head's first novel Long Way Home: A World War II Novel is about personal courage, race, and sexual identity. It was a 2015 Next Generation Indie Book Awards finalist in African American Literature and Historical Fiction. Her novel Bury Me When I'm Dead (Bywater Books), the first book in the Charlie Mack Motown Mysteries, was honored as a 2017 Lammy Finalist. The next work in the series, Wake Me When It's Over, will be released in May 2018.

Greg Herren is the author of over thirty novels and fifty short stories. He has won numerous awards, including the Anthony Award, the Lambda Literary Award (twice) and two Independent Press medals for outstanding work in young adult mystery/horror. His popular Scotty Bradley mystery series has been nominated for numerous awards, and the New Orleans Times-Picayune called it "so much fun it should be thrown from Mardi Gras floats."

Melanie Hoffert is the author the memoir Prairie Silence, which won the 2014 Minnesota Book Award for Memoir and Creative Nonfiction. Her work has been published in several literary journals, including the Baltimore Review and New Millennium Writings, where her essays won each publication's non-fiction writing award. She holds an MFA in Creative Writing from Hamline University. She divides her time between Minneapolis and a cabin near Battle Lake, Minnesota. She's working on a book about water.

Gillian Rodger is Professor of Musicology and Ethnomusicology in the Music Department, University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee. Her ongoing research interests cluster around popular musical theater of nineteenth-century America and working-class popular culture. She explores the early history of variety theater (the form that preceded vaudeville) and its connections to other musical theater forms including minstrelsy and burlesque. In all of her work, Rodger focuses on song and singing, and particularly on song as a dramatic moment. She argues that in non-narrative theater—that is, theater without a linking or overarching narrative structure—song functions to provide narrative periods in the performer's act. Popular songs of the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries relied heavily on stereotypical characters and scenarios and the skills of the performers were instrumental in bringing these songs to life.

Carol Rosenfeld is a New York City-based writer and poet. Her debut novel, The One That Got Away, was published by Bywater Books in June 2015. Her short stories appear in several anthologies, the most recent is Saints & Sinners: New Fiction From the Festival 2016, by Amie M. Evans and Paul J. Willis (Bold Strokes Books). Lauren Sanders is the author of the critically acclaimed novels Kamikaze Lust, which won a Lambda Literary Award, and With or Without You, a Lambda Literary Award finalist. Her most recent novel is The Book of Love and Hate, which Michelle Tea calls "a brainy, expertly written bona fide page-turner." Other writing has appeared over the years in publications and journals including Book Forum, the American Book Review, and Time Out/New York. She is also the editor of a really fun anthology called Too Darn Hot: Writing About Sex Since Kinsey. Lauren lives in the great nation of Brooklyn with her girlfriend and her pitbull-beagle Maverick.

Elizabeth F. Schwartz served as co-counsel on the case challenging Florida's same-sex marriage ban brought by the National Center for Lesbian Rights on behalf of six same-sex couples seeking the right to marry (Pareto v. Ruvin). This lawsuit resulted in Miami-Dade Circuit Judge Sarah Zabel's finding that Florida's same-sex marriage ban deprived same-sex couples due process and equal protection under the law, and in the ordering of Miami-Dade county to issue marriage licenses to same-sex couples. Publications include: Before I Do: A Legal Guide to Marriage, Gay and Otherwise; Transgender Discrimination, Trial Magazine (American Association for Justice, Oct. 2016); Out and About: LGBT Experience in the Profession, Trailblazing Advocacy (American Bar Association, 2015).

JOHN BURTON HARTER FOUNDATION

Empowering awareness of visual and queer arts through the work of John Burton Harter

The John Burton Harter Foundation is a non-profit organization that promotes John Burton Harter's art and the interests he cared about. For more information on the Foundation and to view more of Harter's portfolio, visit: jbharter.org

John Burton Harter (1940-2002) documented the richness of gay experience through his prolific artwork. Harter is most known for exquisite figure studies, especially fine compositions of the male body. These works range from classical studio drawings to completed paintings and self-portraits. He created over 3,000 works of art during his life largely based in New Orleans. His paintings have received acclaim at showings in New York, Baton Rouge, and San Francisco.

Freighter Hand, 1994, oil

“ I am an Artist first and a gay artist incidentally, but a large part of my work reflects a gay orientation. It isn't an agenda especially, but it is a representative of imagery I feel important both to me and to viewers of my work. Because of the Religious Right it is most at risk, as I have written before, and most in need of the safeguards of publication and dissemination. ”

— J.B. Harter

Helenus 2nd Position, 1996, oil

Portrait of Paul Watts, 1989, oil

“ The development of my art has paralleled my homoerotic exploration and as I discovered aspects of the gay world I incorporated them into my paintings and drawings. My translation of the gay world into imagery, to art, defined what I was learning to myself, and each—art and lifestyle—became a part of the other. ”

— J.B. Harter
