

Dear Neighbors,

When I announced that I wanted to work for you as your next District 8 Atlanta City Councilperson, I wrote, "My highest priority will be to represent and serve my 36,000+ neighbors who reside with me in District 8. As a candidate, I will campaign by listening, and as a councilmember I will make your voice heard." My commitment to making your voice heard is central to my candidacy, because working in tandem is the one, true way we can address the challenges facing our city.

You know the list of challenges well: How do we enhance public safety? Make the traffic flow? Attract business? Capitalize on the possibilities of high tech? Secure our city's long-term financial security? Balance results for the local taxes we pay? I'm ready to get to work.

I want to hear from you on these and the other issues that matter to you. I want you to share your good ideas and out-of-the-box thinking. Together, we can get results at City Hall.

To make your voice heard, throughout this campaign I've encouraged you to send me a message through my campaign website JPforATL.com or FaceBook, email me at JP@JPforATL.com, or phone me directly at 678-506-0791. I posted an online survey you can take.

Neighbors of yours and mine have graciously agreed to host meet-and-greets in their homes so that you and I can meet and exchange ideas face to face. The details are here. I hope to see you soon. You will be heard.

Sincerely,
J. P. Matzigkeit
