Studio SOL

PREFACE

Okay.. this is not really a reader in a strict sense; no encompassing script providing you with the necessary information for our studio, not even really a collection of texts, and yet, so we hope, it will speak to you.

This reader is a solar collection of words, citing a multitude of voices from across a plentitude of times. And yes, like they say, in high frequencies things become general—whether to talk about life or to speak about the weather, things tend to mean everything or differently speaking stop to mean anything specific at all—talking about everything under the sun; which, by the way, is also just how this reader came about.

If successful, you pick it up as your companion throughout the season, fearless and playfully. The nouns on the following pages extend our brief and are appointed so as to be powerful in our broader concern, so take them seriously and see what they are able to do, in architecture at large and in your studio-work in particular; look them up in books, magazines and the web, see what happens with and around them and they will naturally gain in character again, always willing to tell you more than you could ask for.
