BUILD YOUR OWN BURJ KHALIFA

Dubai is home to the Burj Khalifa - the world's tallest building. It's over 828 metres high! That's over twice as tall as the tallest building in the UK.

The Burj Khalifa is iconic in Dubai and now you can make your own!

You will need:

- A5 Paper (or cut A4 in half)
- Scissors
- Tin Foil
- Glue
- Black sharpie or tape

Remember to use a recycle bin when disposing of any paper or other recyclable materials from your design.

Step 1) Roll your paper into tight cylinders and glue the end of the paper down to keep it from unravelling. Repeat this until you have at least 12 rolls.

Step 2) Use your scissors to cut strips of tin foil. These should be a little bit taller than your paper rolls and around the same width as the A5 paper.

Step 3) Wrap the tinfoil around the paper rolls. Use glue if needed to keep it from unravelling.

Step 4) Cut the rolls into various heights with 1cm difference between them.

Step 5) Take your tallest cylinder and stand it up-right. Using your glue, take the next tallest cylinder and attach it to your tallest cylinder, keeping the bottom of both cylinders on the table.

Step 6) Repeat this with another 8 of your cylinders, using a photo of the Burj Khalifa as a guide.

Step 7) Take your two remaining cylinders and wrap them around the bottom of your tower. This will create a more stable base for your tower.

Step 8) Using your black sharpie or tape, colour in the top base cylinder.

Step 9) Finally take a very small piece of tin foil and fold it to make a very small cylinder. This will be the rod at the very top of the Burj Khalifa.

Step 10) Glue the rod to the top of your tower. Add any finishing touches of windows or details using a pen. Use photos of the real Burj Khalifa as a guide. When you've finished, you'll have your very own Burj Khalifa replica!
