BAGUIO CITY – The City Council approved the recommendation of the Committee on Barangay Cases Division 3 ordering the suspension of Camp 7 Punong Barangay Constancio Danao after finding him guilty of issuing an untruthful certification that nobody in his barangay interposed an opposition on the intended transfer station for recyclable waste in the said barangay.

Danao's suspension will take effect 15 days after the City Mayor shall have signed the resolution relative to the said decision of the local legislative body which was penned by Councilor Faustino A. Olowan.

The case stemmed from the certification issued by Danao claiming that no resident has objected to the planned use of GA Flores Construction of a parcel of land in their barangay as a transfer station for recyclable waste amidst the strong opposition from concerned residents due to the dangers that the transfer station will pose to their health and Cont. on page 2

Mayor wants lease problem at convention center fixed

BAGUIO CITY – Mayor Mauricio Domogan last week directed city administrator Carlos Canilao to immediately fix the problem on the lease contracts of the tenants at the Baguio Convention Center.

In a memorandum last March 14, the mayor reminded Canilao of an earlier directive to ensure that all the operations of the occupants in the facility are covered by the necessary contracts to avoid questions and complications.

"You were then directed to see to it that all the said occupants are covered by contracts of lease submitted to the City Council for confirmation," the mayor said. "This memorandum is therefore being sent to you to ensure that you complied with all the said requirements."

Canilao in turn ordered the city tourism operations division to submit a report on the status of the contracts and the actions done in compliance to the mayor's earlier directive.

He assured that the contracts will be in order by next week in compliance with the mayor's order.

Issues on the contracts of the tenants of the said facility had hounded the city government particularly the failure to renew the expired memorandum of agreement and the lack of confirmation by the city council.

This has even reached the attention of the Commission on Audit last year which prompted the city council to review the contracts.

Canilao said there are less than ten concessionaires in the facility including the Smart Telco, the Securities and Exchange Commission and van operators and drivers associations which use the area for parking. / Aileen P. Refuerzo#

Regulation of the city's public toilets, urged

BAGUIO CITY – The local legislature passed on first reading a proposed ordinance regulating the operation and maintenance of public toilets and pay comfort rooms here aimed at establishing standards to improve their quality and the tourism experience of the Summer Capital's visitors and guests.

Authored by Vice-Mayor Edison Bilog, the proposed measure points out that a basic yet vital component in any tourist destination like Baguio that can make or break a tourist's experience is when they have to use public toilets or pay comfort rooms.

It stressed that public toilets should be clean, dry, hygienic and must also be complete with various amenities, accessories or facilities, located conveniently, well maintained and equipped with a proper waste management system.

These should also provide safe and accessible facilities to the public and be able to cater to the needs of people with different genders and cultural needs, age groups and persons with disabilities.

If finally approved, the ordinance tasks the city's health service office (HSO) to be the lead agency in monitoring and implementing its provisions.

The HSO shall set aside necessary funds from its annual budget to implement duties and functions defined in the ordinance subject to accounting and auditing rules and procedures. It shall also prepare the measure's implementing rules and regulations, if necessary, subject to the approval of the city council and Mayor.

In coordination with the city's permits and licensing division, the HSO shall inform new applicants of pay comfort room businesses or those that would renew their permits of similar establishments about the measure's provisions.

Any concerned individual caught violating the ordinance's provisions shall be fined P1,000 for the first offense; P2,500 for the second offense and P5,000 for the third offense. All fines shall be paid by the violator at the city treasurer's office./ Gaby Keith and Glen Balangao (pio intern)# environment.

Former Councilor Federico J. Mandapat, Jr. then filed a case of dishonesty, irregularity, and neglect in the performance of duties, misconduct and grave abuse of discretion against Danao for the issuance of the questionable certification.

Concerned residents of Camp 7 formed an organization called the Camp 7 Coalition for Good Governance and elected Mandapat as their president and initially filed an administrative case against Danao before the local legislative body for his having issued an untruthful certification that nobody interposed an opposition to the intended transfer station for recyclable waste at Camp 7.

Two more complaints on malversation of public funds through falsification of public documents were filed by Mark John Pepin, et. al. against Danao and were forwarded to the office of the Ombudsman for Luzon for its proper action and disposition by the city prosecutor's office.

The residents also questioned the operation of a batching plant of Engr. William Tan before the Environmental Management Bureau (EMB) in the Cordillera and that they were furnished by the said office with a copy of Barangay Council Resolution No. 25-2012 which granted clearance for the said questionable batching plant.

The residents claimed the barangay clearance is highly irregular because of the existence of Ordinance No. 43, series of 2007 prohibiting the operation of batching plants around the city.

The complaint stated to date Danao has not issued a certified copy of the said questionable resolution neither did he make a formal reply to their queries which is in violation of the provisions of Republic Act (RA) 6713 which provides that all public officials and employees must act within 15 days from receipt of any request and must make a reply that contains the actions taken thereon.

On the other hand, Danao denied the allegations in Mandapat's complaint, claiming that it was baseless and without factual basis made purposely to embarrass and malign his person and the truth is that the complainant does not know the truth and falsity of the matters stated in the complaint. The committee found that Danao has failed to consider the rules of procedures for environmental cases promulgated by no less than the Supreme Court (SC). Further, the committee believes Danao's position lacks credence, especially that it is not supported by any evidence./By Dexter A. See#

City lauds honest, dedicated public servants

BAGUIO CITY – The local legislature unanimously approved two separate measures commending individuals for honesty and public service.

In resolution number 89, series of 2017, Raul Frigillana, a security guard at Teacher's Camp, is commended for "his exemplary act of honesty" in returning a wallet containing a huge amount of money including several identification and bank cards, to the owner on February 5, this year.

Upon finding the wallet, he immediately contacted its owner, Sheila Marie Vallador, to inform her of the wallet and how he can return it.

"The act of Raul Frigillana strengthens the fact that residents of Baguio are indeed honest and trustworthy and deserve praise and commendation from the city and its officialdom," the measure states.

On the other hand, resolution number 93, series of 2017, commends police officer 2 Ben Pais, a traffic beat cop, for his "outstanding public service and dedication".

TTMC summit

BAGUIO CITY – Stakeholders, public utility vehicle drivers and operators, students and school administrators, private individuals, government officials, senior citizens and persons with disability, the Baguio City Police Office and interested entities came together and voiced out traffic concerns during the summit at the Baguio Convention Center last Thursday.

The summit which aimed to address the city's heavy traffic problems through odd-even schemes, an improved public transport through the Department of Science and Technology (DOST) –proposed monorail passing through the Balili river was well-participated in by the stakeholders. Other suggestions include road-widening, the construction of serviceable overpasses near congested areas and the school-belt, more consultations and information campaigns in the barangays and strict implementation of traffic rules and regulations.

In the ensuing analysis, however, self-discipline ranked foremost as the determining factor in traffic problem solving. The administrative order for the anti-road obstruction drive was also discussed, with Councilor

Michael Lawana explaining the salient points, as to the deputization of barangay officials. Traffic expert Engr. Teodorico Tan explained the mechanics for road status, transport, sidewalk and pedestrians, and needed facilities. The business sector and academics group also gave feedback, as with the blue, yellow, green and red jeepney trunkline association officers.

Bypass roads along and through the neighboring towns of La Trinidad, Itogon, Sablan and Tuba were also acknowledged as traffic relievers, with officials of public works and highways present.

During the participatory forum, the stakeholders ranked the short, medium

Burnham Park report

BAGUIO CITY – Administrative Order 21, series of 2015; “Rules and Regulations governing operation and maintenance of the “Burnham Park Reservation,” is being strictly implemented, it was reported during the Alay Sa Kalinisan (ASK) meeting last week.

Project Evaluation Officer Joseph Hermogeno informed the group that in February and the past months, there were individuals caught violating provisions of AO 21; as to anti-smoking, peddling and intake of intoxicating liquor in the park, and public scandal involving minors. Violators were made to pay fines and some rendered community service, while offender minors were sent to counseling along with their parents.

There were also masseurs and those performing tattoo art in the park who were apprehended, documented and given warnings. Charges are filed in court against violators if the warnings remain unheeded, Hermogeno said.

Provisions in Section 2 of AO 21, prohibit smoking, drinking, undue burning, destroying of plants, unnecessary noise-making, littering and spitting, in the park, including personal services such as massage, nail spa (manicure and pedicure), and tattoo, thus personnel of the City Environment and Parks Management Office (CEPMO) and the security guard agency for the park ensure the enforcement and implementation of said legislative measure.

Clean-ups are also conducted in coordination with private groups, as with replanting of ornamental plants at the rose garden by students; flushing at the Igorot Park, Harrison road to Athletic Bowl; rose Garden, childrens’ park and Melvin Jones grandstand. Mowing, trimming, cleaning and maintenance are regular activities but done more frequently during special occasions, Hermogeno added.

Improvements also include repainting of the Sunshine Park stage, bandstand rooftop and fence of the Baguio City High School (BCHS); and landscaping of the Ganza parking entrance.

Rehabilitation within the Burnham lake this year, with project cost of around P19M is planned in coordination with the Department of Tourism-CAR, it was known. /Julie G. Fianza#

Has ‘overwork’ taken on epidemic proportions in the country?

What's the real score with overworked Filipinos? We're taking a closer look. Last week Senator Grace Poe cited data from the Philippine Statistics Authority (PSA) showing that, as of 2015, around 8.1 million Filipinos were considered overworked (or worked for more than 48 hours in a week). This number represents a 41% increase since 1995.

According to Senator Poe, this finding is crucial since “several studies have shown that excessive work hours could trigger serious health problems and even cause death.” Indeed, overwork can lead to higher risks of impaired sleep, depression, and heart disease (among other things). Overworked employees are also not necessarily more productive because of their longer hours.

The latest statistics prompted Senator Poe to initiate an investigation that will inform future legislation to ensure “just and humane work conditions” for Filipinos.

But in this article we take a closer look at the data. First, although more Filipinos are overworked, the problem is not as extensive as it seems, given that the number of employed Filipinos grew even faster. Second, the issue of underemployment – which comprises those who want to work more hours – is a similarly disturbing matter that needs just as much attention.

EDITORIAL

The extent of overwork

In February 2017 the PSA released a report entitled, “Decent Work in the Philippines,” which features statistics on overworked Filipinos.

But Figure 1 shows that, while the number of overworked Filipinos grew by 41% from 1995 to 2015, the number of employed Filipinos also grew by 51% over the same period. The net effect is that the share of overworked Filipinos to the employed has stayed roughly constant in the past 21 years (averaging 22%). The 2015 figure of 20.9% was actually the lowest since 1995.

THE SHARE OF OVERWORKED FILIPINOS IS THE LOWEST SINCE 1995

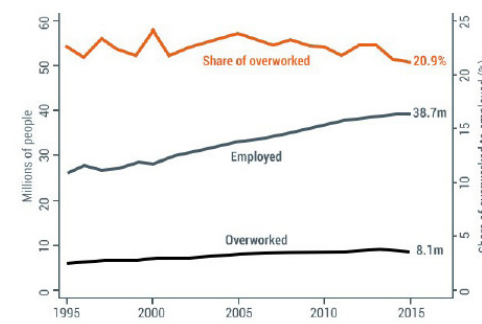

Figure 1. Source: PSA and author's calculations of Labor Force Survey data. Period covered: 1995 to 2015. Note: a person is considered "overworked" if he or she worked for more than 48 hours in a week.

In other words, the extent of overwork did not become terribly more serious over the past 2 decades. In fact, it has declined to a record low: a smaller proportion of employed Filipinos are now overworked compared to 1995.

The extent of underemployment Perhaps just as troubling, however, is the extent of employed Filipinos who say they want to work more hours, or the “under-employed.”

Following international standards, the PSA defines the underemployed as those who desire “to have additional hours of work in their present job or an additional job, or have a new job with longer working hours.”

As of January 2017, 16.3% of employed Filipinos were underemployed. Figure 2 shows that this figure is not just stubbornly high, but also historically higher than the unemployment rate: the latest underemployment rate is nearly 2.5 times as large as the unemployment rate.

The prevalence of underemployment is troubling from the viewpoints of growth and equity.

UNDEREMPLOYMENT IS SIMILARLY A SERIOUS PROBLEM

From a growth viewpoint, it's not enough that more Filipinos have jobs. Instead, we want them to work in high-quality jobs where their skills and knowledge can be utilized most productively. Otherwise, not only will workers be unsatisfied with their work, but national productivity and growth will also suffer.

From an equity viewpoint,

KAKAMPI MO ANG BATAS

FB Live: broadcasting worldwide

BY: ATTY. BATAS MAURICIO

LIFE'S INSPIRATIONS: "... In the presence of God and of Christ Jesus, who will judge the living and the dead, and in view of his appearing and his kingdom, I give you this charge: Preach the word..." (2 Timothy 4:1-2, the Holy Bible).

THE MIRACLE OF BROADCASTING WORLDWIDE THRU FACEBOOK LIVE: Today's column concerns a personal matter. I wish to invite everyone to visit two Facebook pages or timelines, where I am the administrator---the “Ang Tangang Daan” and “Kakampi Mo ang Batas” timelines.

For the last several days---and I pray to God this can go on at least until the purposes for which those Facebook pages or timelines have been established shall have been achieved---I have been broadcasting daily through what is now known as “Facebook Live” broadcast application (or “apps”, as these things are usually referred to by Internet users around the world).

Indeed, I can only say, “thank God in the Name of Jesus” for this wonderful instrumentality made available for free by Facebook, because through it, I can now bring my advocacy for spreading the Gospel that says Jesus is God and Savior, and is God the Father, Son, and Holy Spirit, technically to the whole world, and for helping our countrymen, wherever they maybe, understand the complications and solutions to their legal problems.

“ANG TANGANG DAAN”, BIBLE STUDY IN ENGLISH: The broadcast for “Ang Tangang Daan” is now carried out on a daily basis, usually starting between 7 p.m. up to 9 p.m. The starting time for the broadcast varies everyday, depending on whether or not I have already done away with the various tasks that are confronting me daily---as a broadcaster, columnist, trial lawyer, legal and management consultant, preacher, and, sometimes, as counselor.

Then, as the experience of the past one week has shown, I usually go on air for about 45 minutes to one hour. The topics that I have been discussing focus on the teachings and basic doctrines of the Christian church where God graciously installed me as its first Leader Disciple since 2007, the Anak ng Diyos Kadugo Ni Kristo (or the Children of God Blood Kin of the Christ) Church.

What is more, the live broadcast is simultaneously recorded by Facebook itself, so that anyone wishing to view or listen to any previous broadcast all over again can simply go back to the page “Ang Tangang Daan” by writing and clicking “Ang Tangang Daan” at the search engine of Facebook. Once the “Ang Tangang Daan” page appears, the image of the desired broadcast should be clicked to savor the discussions once more.

“KAKAMPI MO ANG BATAS” GOES ON AIR ONCE AGAIN: The broadcast for “Kakampi Mo Ang Batas” employs the same process, and is also aimed to be held on a daily basis likewise, usually right after the Facebook Live broadcast for “Ang Tangang Daan” is completed. And just like the “Ang Tangang Daan” broadcast, it also lasts between 45 minutes to one hour.

“Kakampi Mo Ang Batas” features the English and Filipino columns I write everyday for newspapers in Luzon, Visayas, and Mindanao, and in the Metro

Editorial from page 4 some studies show that most of the unemployed are actually nonpoor (e.g., college graduates waiting for good job prospects), while most of the under-employed are poor. Hence, some economists contend that solving underemployment might help a lot to abate poverty.

Who are the overworked and underemployed?
The issues of overwork (working excessive hours) and underemployment (wanting to work more hours) are distinct problems. But they both highlight the crucial importance of ensuring job quality in our labor markets. What can we do about them?
First, we can start by identifying the occupations that are most affected by overwork and underemployment. By doing so, we can introduce regulations and policies in these occupations to improve their working conditions.
Table 1 shows the top occupations where we can find the overworked and underemployed. On the left, one can see that most of the overworked are: general managers and proprietors; blue collar workers (such as domestic helpers, laundrers, and messengers); and models, salespersons, and demonstrators. Meanwhile, on the right, as many as 34% or over a third of underemployed workers can be found in agriculture- and fisheries-related trades.

Top 5 occupations where overworked are		Top 5 occupations where underemployed are
	Percent share		Percent share
General managers or managing proprietors	30.7	Agricultural, forestry, fishery, and related laborers	20.7
Sales and services elementary occupations	16.5	Farmers and other plant growers	12.9
Models, salespersons, and demonstrators	10.3	General managers or managing proprietors	11.5
Personal and protective services workers	8.9	Sales and services elementary occupations	9.6
Agricultural, forestry, fishery, and related laborers	7.3	Laborers in mining construction, manufacturing, and transport	7.3

Source: LFS October 2015.

Second, more research needs to dwell on the reasons behind overwork and underemployment. For instance, overwork may sometimes be a consequence of the nature of certain jobs, so policies might do little in reducing work hours.
Also, underemployment may be expected in jobs characterized by seasonality (as in agriculture). In any case, the effectiveness of interventions need to be informed by more studies about the determinants of overwork and underemployment.
Third, some experts believe that overwork and especially underemployment are symptomatic of a high “education-skills mismatch.” For instance, overwork may be the result of professionals being forced to do tasks beyond their expertise, so they work longer hours than usual. Also, underemployment may be the result of highly-educated workers finding work in menial jobs. By reducing the gap between our graduates’ skills and the firms’ demands, we could reduce long work hours and the underutilization of our people’s skills.

Job quality matters
In sum, we need not worry too much about the increase in the number of overworked Filipinos cited by Senator Poe. Some labor-related statistics are just better reported in terms of percentages or shares, to account for changes in the labor force and the number of employed Filipinos over time.
Perhaps a better target for research and policy is how we can generate higher-quality jobs (and not simply more jobs) to address the distinct but equally important problems of overwork and underemployment.
A better understanding of excessive and inadequate work hours will bring not just more workplace satisfaction, but also higher growth and greater equity for the country./ Rappler.com

EL MAESTRO SPEAKS

Ang Probinsyano
(A teacher’s Version)

BY: CLYDE B. SACPA

When I was teaching back in the city, everything seems to be very easy. All the things I need is there. If I want a new material as long as I have the money I can always buy it. In the city informations seems to be there waiting for you to take it. It feels like everything is for the taking.

When I moved back in the country, I felt like I was a neophyte teacher though I had been teaching in the city for quite a long while. Everything I took for granted in the city is so difficult to have in the country side. Everything I knew has to be changed to adapt my new environment and that is quite unnerving to do and of course you got to do it fast.

First adjustment that got me is on the materials to be used in the work. I am very specific of the material I use but when I was in the countryside I have to learn how to see an ordinary object with an extra creative eye. Maybe an ordinary stick can be used for something in the classroom in substitute for the material that is readily available in the city but seems to be non-existent in the countryside.

Second adjustment is on the internet. Well, I’m a bit of a tech-savvy person and I have the habit of self-teaching and learning new information from the net which I know most or all teachers do. When I was in the country side, I felt like I was left out and laid back for at least Five years or more. Though I have mobile internet, the speed and occasional data usage from the network makes you miss home. To update yourself, you got to be Patient and think of a creative way of getting information, like asking other people and going to the library.

The third and most difficult adjustment I had is with my pupils. In the city, pupils are quite advance in a lot of things. In the countryside I have to explain everything in details and must be very patient as children in the country side have the propensity to laugh at new things they taught is weird. I also have to teach myself in simplifying things which I thought was simple to the city children’s eye.

As a teacher, I am so blessed to experience the best of both worlds. It had made me practice what I always preach on my article and vlog like flexibility, adaptability, and the ability to learn fast. Aside from that it made me give more respect to our fellow teachers at the countryside. They are well-equipped and well prepared with less material. They can create a something from nothing. So when you’re feeling down and you need a motivation, remember that there are teachers in the countryside making a difference without the luxury that we have in the city.#

MAGKASANGGA TAYO

Impitsmen Kompln,
Todas ka na!!!

BY: NESTOR “PAKEN” CASTRO

Sa wakas ay dumating na rin ang araw kung saan Snasampahan ng impeachment complaint itong si Poon Nasiraan Digong este Pangulong Digong.

Alam naman nating lahat na walang mangyayari sa impeachment na ito at siguradong hinidi mai-impeach itong si Digong. Panahon nga ni GMA ay naka-ilang impeachment rin siya ngunit ala ring nangyari sapagkat habang nasa poder ang pangulo ay hawak niya ang tongreso este kongreso at ang isang impeachment complaint ay paramihan lang naman ng kakampi sa tongreso.

Kaya ang tanong ay bakit pa isinampa ang nasabing impitsmen kompln?

Ayon sa opinyon ng ibang mga experto ay at least mailalagay into legal form at magiging publiko o public ang nasabing mga records at hindi lang panay haka-haka at kiao-kiao kung hindi ay records done under oath ika nga. Ang isa pa na paggagamitan daw ng impitsmen kompln ay ang para sa International Criminal Court o ang ICC na siyang gagamiting ebidensiya sa paglilitis kay Pangulong Digong, sapagkat kapag na-dismiss na ang impitsmen kompln ay pawidi nang dalhin o isampa sa ICC ang kaso. Ayos din naman ang malitis sa ICC sapagkat sa aking pagkakaalam ay kahit na nung kapanahunana ni Pangulong Marcos ay hindi naman siya nalitis sa ICC, kaya sikat itong si Digong kung siya ang malitis sa ICC at makapagparesha niya sina Idi Amin, Sadam Hussiein, Muamar Khadaffi at marami pa na ibang mga diktador na kriminal na lantarang nagba-violate ng karapatang pantao o human rights.

Mukhang mapapalaban ang kasalukuyang administrasyon kung saan hindi rin naman biro-biro ang mga sanctions na isasagawa ang EU, ang Estados Unidos at iba pa na mga western countries and cultures na binibigyan ng kahalagahan ang human rights.

Para sa akin ang hindi ko gusto sa kasalukuyang laban sa droga ay ang puros very small fish o mga dukha lamang ang napapatay. Eh bakit puros maliliit lamang at hindi ang malalaking isda o big fish o kahit na sana ang mas mga may kaya sa buhay ang kanilang tigokin, bakit???

Ayon sa opinyon ng ilan ay ang kasalukuyang laban sa droga ay palpak rin kahit na sa Davao sapagkat ang patunay nito ay nuong na ilunsad ang oplan tokhang at double barrel ay napakaraming nag surrender din sa Davao kung saan ay 20 years nang ipinatutupad ang oplan tokhang. O di yun ang patunay na it is a failure kahit na sa Davao, sapagkat kung successful ang tokhang eh di konti na sana ang drug users sa Davao! O tayong mga Duterteads, ano pa ang kelangan nating malaman para matulat ang ating mga mata?

Sa susunod ko na kulom ay aking tatalakayin ang issue nitong benhamrice este rise. Hi! Hi! Hi! Kaya ingat-ingat po kayong mga dear readers at baka mapagkamalang pipitsuging drug user at pusher at matigok kayo ng DDS, alam niyo naman at ganuon kamura ang inyong buhay.

I am aware, based on my past radio, TV, and newspaper experiences, that many of our countrymen hunger for free legal advice and counseling about their problems. This is the reason why media forums on the law and court cases enjoy great patronage. The airing of “Kakampi Mo Ang Batas” through Facebook Live seeks to fulfill this need of Filipinos, whether they are in the Philippines or abroad.
