Section Two Role Playing

Direction: Students will be asked to participate in multi-participant scenarios for approximately 5 minutes. They should use one of the example words from section one during your role-playing scenario.

Role Playing

1. You have met a foreigner that is visiting your country for the first time. Invite him/her to your house to have dinner with your family and give him/her a little bit about what to expect.
2. You are in a new country for the first time and the food is very different. You have been invited to a local person's house to eat but have a very strict diet. Talk to them about it so they understand your concerns and are not offended.
3. You like to cook and have met a friend that also likes to cook. Talk with your friend about your favorite dishes to cook, and why?
4. You have been thinking about becoming a vegetarian, so talk with a friend about it before you make a major lifestyle change.
5. You are traveling abroad and have been asked to give a short presentation to some students about eating habits and how food is related to culture in your country. Spend a few minutes giving them some ideas and be ready to answer their questions.
6. You believe in eating healthy food, but your friend likes fast food. Talk with your friend and try to convince them to having healthier eating habits.
