I Have an Ex-Girlfriend From England who was Half Jamaican and British and Fine as fuck!!! anyway this song would make her go Crazy, Very sexy girl , And I Regret not staying with her.

“Electric Avenue” - Eddy Grant

This song reminds me of this boy.
We sat down and spoke about music all night, over a few bottles of wine, He showed me this song, and it was the first time I had ever heard of Aphex twin. I fell in love with him that night, but I was too shy to ever show him. He's with someone else now, and i'm friends with both of them. I am happy for them, yet sad that I let someone seemingly perfect go. This song summarises these feelings for me, as there isn't truly any words for them.

i remember in the early 90's dancing to this song in a nightclub with the love of my life at the time and as we were dancing i got tears in my eyes, she asked me what was wrong and i said 'nothing i just love you so much' and we kissed and held each other , unfortunately a couple of years later circumstances meant we could not be together any more and we went our own ways but i still think of this lady and this song sometimes even though i am married and have my own family

“Love Will Lead You Back” - Taylor Dayne

I was 24. she was 32. I met her at a night club in London. This was the song we danced to.
on that Saturday night in the August of 1982.

We stayed together for 18 month's. Even has a baby together. Still think about her once in a while. Wonder what she's doing right now.
God Bless to you..... Anna

I'm 49, I try to tell my son, What they call music isn't music ! This song take's me back to the club's in Downtown Washington Dc. in the early 80's...My sister's best friend was a Jet centerfold And i remember this song coming on an her friend Valeria grabbing my hand to dance to this song every time we were at the club's ...WHAT faded memories the 40 & over crowd have ! (I wished i married her !)

“Just an Illusion” - Imagination

my biggest regret... her name was Stacy...

we were 2 volatile 2 B 2-gether, but couldn't stay apart... things were said and done on both sides, but I ended it... the last time I saw her, was at a club. I had been given a slot 2 spin that night. She found me just as this song came up. She offered her hand,, I just stood and ignored her... she put her hands over her mouth, turned and left...

I wanted 2... but... couldn't...

I left the city a week later and never returned...

“Love Will Lead You Back” - Taylor Dayne

It reminds me of lying on the beach on Lake Michigan with Colleen. We were teenagers. I can't believe it was so long ago now. She went away to school and we drifted apart. I wish I could call her and tell her I still love her. I do.

“Telephone Line” - Electric Light Orchestra

This Is to Belinda Gail Beaman, or what ever your last name is now, Where ever you're at tonight. I messed up bad all those years ago. Tonight I have nothing but this song to remind me of how big a fool I was. I was playing around on the side; I got the wrong girl pregnant. I never told you, that's why I ran away from you. That day in the Campus Library I'll never forget your eyes. I have a home now and money, I still wonder as I listen to this song all alone how our life together could have been. Miss You!

“Dirty Old Town” - The Pogues

.I was head over heels in love with a lady during the summer of 75.I think she liked me too, but my extreme shyness and lack of confidence prevented me from communicating with her.When I walk around the corner of Potomac and Clairemont, I still think of her. Giselda, I think I still love you.
