- Is considered amongst the absolute elite in the world according to medias like Beer Advocate, RateBeer and Untappd.
- On Beer Advocate where Evil Twins highly praised Imperial Biscotti Break leads the 2012 ranking of the worlds best beers.
- The first year the brewery only made test batches, in 2011 the total production hit around 1.000 bbl, growing to approx 2.500-3.000 bbl in 2012 and in 2013 Jeppe expect to at least double that production.
- Especially two beers has caught everyone's beer enthusiasts attention. This year renowned RateBeer released their 2012 midterms stats placing two of Evil Twin Beers, Imperial Biscotti Break and Even More Jesus, in the top 10 of the best new beers in the world right now.
- In March 2012 Jeppe Jarnit-Bjergsø decided to relocate in Brooklyn, NY with wife and two kids, in order to be closer to where it all happens and to grow and develop the brand.
- Time being it's been impossible to supply the demand and everything is completely sold out.
- At the moment Jeppe's ambition is to make New York the beer capital of the world.
