

Conscious Leadership Regional Forums / F.A.Q.

What is a Conscious Leadership Regional Forum?

A group of like-minded organizational leaders who come together to practice consciousness and conscious leadership together. The intention is to support one another to their life's purpose personally and professionally. Forums are led by certified CLG facilitators.

Who can participate?

People who...

- Take responsibility for their influence in the world.
- Commit to curiosity, value learning over being right, and are open to giving and receiving feedback.
- Are dedicated to living in alignment with the 15 Commitments of Conscious Leadership.

What is the unique value of a Forum experience?

This particular group format provides unrivaled learning experiences and outcomes:

- The group feedback process reveals and remedies long hidden blind spots and unconscious commitments. Issues that members have been recycling can then come to resolution.
- An unwavering commitment to transparency allows each member's most authentic self to come forward.
- A group dedicated to aligning with the 15 commitments creates a rare climate of trust that sets the stage for transformation.

How is a CLG forum different from other forums?

CLG forums focus on context. Most groups focus on the content of a member's issue. We listen in order to understand the content, but our primary focus is on the context from which the content arises. In doing so, we support members in permanently resolving issues. Watch this video to learn more about the relationship between content and context.

We believe that the deepest transformation comes when a facilitator has mastery in both the 15 Commitments and coaching others. Therefore, all of our forums are facilitated by trained and certified CLG coaches. Our forums prioritize self awareness over socializing, giving business advice, or networking.

What are the benefits that apply specifically to leaders in organizations?

Leaders who integrate conscious leadership experience a greater sense of wellbeing. They experience more energy, creativity, and connection. If you take what you learn in Forum to heart and practice, you'll be positioned to begin to transform the culture of your team(s). Leaders who apply conscious leadership at work report that conflicts are resolved more easily, drama declines significantly, and people feel more empowered, included, and valued.

You'll take away effective tools to build deeper self-awareness, including processes to increase emotional and body intelligence, productive communication techniques, a heightened sense of individual responsibility vs. blaming, and strategies for reducing drama and building trust with your team(s) and in all areas of your life.

Is there an attendance policy?

Every member agrees to attend at least 8 of the 10 meetings and the three day retreat.

Are there other requirements?

Every forum member agrees to...

- have a personal mediation practice.
- talk weekly for 30 minutes with a learning partner from the group.
- post on a private Slack board once a week to give a status update and to comment on other members' updates (30 minutes/week time investment).
- have an enneagram assessment/interview (unless you have done so already) with a CLG coach to determine or confirm your enneagram type. Cost is $500.

What do CLG Forum members say about their experience?

I'll admit, I think taking time to meet with a group every month for a period of time when you already feel like you're dropping balls, can feel like a bit too much. I've been surprised at how leveraged that time is actually in a group setting. I now experience a higher degree of trust, despite the outcomes of the day to day. And the goodness of it all is that it's liberated me to apply myself without unhelpful anxiety.

Premal Shah / President, kiva.org

"During the persona party at our retreat I experienced a profound shift; it turned the hardest thing I've ever dealt with in my adult life into an incredible learning opportunity. I now know I can choose to look at every situation in life as an opportunity rather than a struggle...[In general] I think of Forum as fun. I see it on my calendar and I look forward to it."

Joe Greenstein / Co-Founder, InnerSpace Former CEO, Flixster and Rotten Tomatoes

"Forum has really opened me up personally to a more fuller experience of myself...I've seen myself step back and let things unfold more naturally, and, as a result, I feel like the relationships and my connection to organizations, family members, or projects that I'm creating have been more clear and less laden with all sorts of other emotional baggage. Everything feels a little lighter and cleaner, a little more nimble in my life than it has in the past. That's been a great shift for me."

Susan Flynn / Owner, Verdant Hollow Farms

"CLG Forum is a YPO/WPO forum on steroids. Most folks are all too comfortable telling the same story, both to themselves and others, again and again. With CLG, I've seen real transformation. The honesty, authenticity, freedom and integrity I find in this forum is unlike any other forum experience I have had. It's life changing, and not just for the participants. Friends, co-workers and, most importantly, family and significant others are all happier. It's the real deal"

Jeff Brothers / CEO, VetGrow Inc

"I found Forum to be edgy but not scary. I got as much challenge out of it as I wanted and as much vulnerability as I was comfortable with. There was a really nice allowance to meet me where I was. The retreat also was exceptionally fun. Seriously, the retreat was one of the most fun two days I've ever had in my whole life. And I've had a lot of fun. So that's saying something."

Caneel Joyce / Executive Coach, Culture Builder, Movement Maker

"CLG Forum has given me a level of calmness and awareness that I didn't know existed. It's truly changed my outlook and approach to life."

David Blair / Executive Chairman, Accountable Health, Inc.
