

The European Journal of Japanese Philosophy, the official academic organ of the European Network of Japanese Philosophy, is a peer-reviewed journal published annually in the fall. Its aim is to provide a forum for critical articles and translations related to Japanese philosophy. Contributions are welcome in English, French, German, Italian, Portuguese, Romanian, Spanish, and Japanese.

The inaugural issue will contain approximately 390 pages of essays, translations, research notes, and book reviews. It will be available from 1 August 2016 at a base price of us$15 (or its equivalent in local currencies).

Copies may be ordered from Amazon or its subsidiary CreateSpace.

Inquires on submissions should be directed to: ejjp.contact@gmail.com.
