MEDICAL CARE FOR THE SKIN

ALHYDRAN medical hydrating cream with Aloe Vera from Aruba Video Transcription (English)

Medical professionals who want the best for their patients demand the best aftercare products on the market—they demand Alhydran. Alhydran is a registered medical device developed in cooperation with a prestigious European burn and wound center. Its effectiveness has been proven in countless scientific and clinical studies, which is why physicians and skin-care professionals consistently choose Alhydran to treat disrupted skin barriers, especially for the aftercare of burn wounds, scar tissue, and dermatological and cosmetic treatments.

The secret to Alhydran's unparalleled effectiveness? Simple—Alhydran is packed with 45% fresh Aloe Vera Gel from Aruba. Today, Aloe Vera is one of the most powerful hydrating remedies available, and given that Aruba's climate & soil intensify the plant's concentration of vitamins, minerals, and polysaccharides, Aruban Aloe contains the most potent Aloe Vera Gel in the world.

The fresh Aloe leaves are hand-picked only days or even hours prior to production, minimizing the need for preservatives that can destroy active elements. And since the Aloe Vera Gel is 100% fresh—not processed, heated, or concentrated—it retains a high concentration of vitamins and minerals, boosting Alhydran's superior, medical-grade quality.

Finally, other key ingredients like Vitamin E and Jojoba Oil are added to Alhydran to maximize its healing power. This process is conducted according to an array of international standards in hygiene and production.

Patients deserve the best aftercare products. They deserve uncompromising quality. They deserve Alhydran—carefully crafted with the best Aloe Vera in the world!
