

Question: is upward mobility deemed witchcraft?

To:

The Honourable Judge Master Davison 12 King's Bench Walk
Temple, London
EC4Y 7EL
Great Britain
chambers@12kbw.co.uk

Oslo, 22th of September, 2024

Dear Honourable Judge Master Davison,

Please excuse my forwardness, as I take this repeated liberty, to further impose, upon the most Honourable Judge's patience, in the hope, that my Scandinavian viewpoint might find favour – regarding further elaboration on ancient British Law – with reference, to my earlier letter, dated June 20th 2024, and August 22nd 2024, sent to your office.

1. It is a philological paradox, that both Briton myths, and Saxon runes, share a common image – a poetic metaphor – that reveals, that supreme leadership is attested rightful, by pulling a sword [blade], from a [seed] stone – especially, since legendary King Arthur II waged war, against the Saxons, in the 6th century AD.

2. In 1902, Rev. W. M. H. Milner finds it “curious, that Briton and Saxon should trace back to the same origin.” (p. 34, The Royal House of Britain - An Enduring Dynasty) – which implies, that a common image has travelled twice, by sea and land, to Britain, and arrived, independently – by Anatolian migration, in the 7th century BC, and Saxon migration, in 5th century AD.

<https://www.covpub.co.uk/showprod.php?id=42>

3. This crucial common image, that pulls a sword [blade], from a [seed] stone, is too complex and sophisticated, to be a mere coincidence, and therefore, there must be a common ideological root – which points, to the early 9th century BC, when biblical raven-Elijah was mulling at the brook, in wake of a civil war.

4. This surprising conclusion is based on the assumption, that raven-Elijah, philosophically, is raven-Odin - a millennium apart - who mulls, at the well of wisdom: the skull cup of Mimir - which also suggests, that the Holy Grail, at the Last Supper, that was brought to Britain, is a Scythian war trophy.

5. The Scythian century, the 7th BC, was brought to a conclusion, when Nineveh fell, assuming, that prior to that, fallen Samaria had risen in Crimea - as Asgard - and waged war of retaliation, which means, that the pre-British tin trade must have been controlled from the Black Sea, beyond Assyrian reach, protected, by the Caucasus Mountains and the Don river.

6. By decoding the Anglo-Saxon rune poem, and tracing its ideological origin, to the 9th century BC, then it is a logical conclusion, that Crimea would have been a temporary headquarters of the pre-British tin trade, in the 7th century BC, with Troy VIII, as an Anatolian trading post, in the Greek sphere - which financed the Scythian war machine, against the Assyrian empire.

7. Therefore Odin, setting court in Denmark, can be placed, into an ideological and political context, which is a claim to the throne, that the nonconformists, like George Hickes, were looking for, to bolster upward mobility, based on merit, symbolised, in the pull of a sword [blade], from a [seed] stone.

8. Historically, Elijah trumps Samuel, and therefore Odin has a rightful claim, to the British throne, because wits, attested by Odin's runes, outrank primogeniture and patriarchal blessing, which means, that any Scandinavian can excel, as king in Britain, according to ancient Scythian Law.

<https://dl.dropboxusercontent.com/s/rtq5r7pkcbxowfi/original-settlement.jpg>

It is my hope, that the Honourable Judge, in Great Britain, would be so kind, as to please share his most valued wisdom, and shed light upon the matter.

Thank you. Yours sincerely,

Harry Potter

The Cupboard under the Stairs, 4, Privet Drive, Little Whinging, Surrey.

cc: author J. K. Rowling, witchcraft expert. info@jkrowling.com

PS. I include a limerick of mine, in honour of Brute the Briton:

Caer Troia

Brute the Briton has now come forth, to once again show his worth, and upraise the Kingdom of great druid wisdom, in Caer Troia of the high north.

Brute the Briton is the roaring lion, out of ancient mount Zion, who made the crossover
at the cliffs of Dover, into the green plains of Albion.

Brute the Briton is the Pendragon, in flaming tongue of Avalon, and with sword in hand he is God's last stand.
Hail, ye once and future Briton!

Grim Reaper

Thralls, needle stung by papal grace, with glowing iron in orifice, are publicly paraded
and hanged,
to serve as corpses in shoelace.

Scythian resistance is hell on hooves, hunting anything that moves, by mounted archery
in Piccadilly,
and Tower of London in flames.

Headless is corpse, of Nineveh fallen, and crows hitherto summoned, to celebrate cranial cup of beheaded top,
cheering football in pub of Eden.

Scythian Warfare

Hooves of thundering ground, in drumbeating sound,
of heartfelt ride
was pride,
breaking Assyrian bound.

Scythian Mare Milk

Dry was Assyrian military plan, to sober up wine man,
so grapeless be
his captivity,
in faraway mare-milk land.

At first there was frustration, in empty drink situation, until booze angel
did miracle,
in mare-milk fermentation.

Arisen from mare-milk brewery, galloped skilled archery, in drinking game
taking aim,
at Assyrian boring tyranny.

When horse and man are one, warfare is already won,
as voice of land
will stand,
when all is said and done.

Blessed, by his four feet friend, captivity came to an end, because wisdom
in freedom,
broken heart will mend.

Caramella Cantarella

Caramella uses feminist strategy, to gain power of presidency, by absence of reason
in Circean poison, simulating false pregnancy.

Witchcraft is attempting to use,
any man's mother issues, so that the lost boys
become pig toys,
in the oestrogen doll's house.

Odysseus shone bravery gilded, ironclad and cold-blooded, and by Scythian toast pulling a Perseus,
he made Medusa beheaded.

Henry VIII

Beowulf had a marital monster or two,
coming down with feminist flu,
and to witches' peril
he slew Grendel,
so Great Britain will flourish anew.

Arthur the Second had a wife or two,
coming down with feminist flu,
and through his manhood he made dog food,
so Great Britain will flourish anew.

Henry the Eighth had a wife or two,
coming down with feminist flu,
and by chopping down
he saved the Crown,
so Great Britain will flourish anew.