Sometimes we have tornado drills at school. We practice what we would do if there were ever a tornado.

A tornado makes very strong winds outside. An alarm might go off or an announcement will be made telling our teacher to bring us to a safe spot.

It is important to stay inside and stay away from windows when there is a tornado.

An adult or teacher will bring us to a room with less windows to sit quietly.

Sometimes, we may need to practice going under a table, or putting our hands over the back of our head.

We can try to stay calm.
We can take deep breaths if we feel nervous. Our teacher will keep us safe!

When the tornado drill is done,
our teacher will bring us
back to our classroom.
