Wind – Chair
Design by Patrick Norguet

With his Wind chair, Patrick Norguet is taking on a classic, redefined and refined to match his unique signature: a minimalist design, subtly yet undeniably human. The strength of nature's elements, of the blowing and billowing wind have inspired a silhouette that is both airy and comforting, a structural frame that elegantly hugs the seat and wide backrest and extends down into four thin, fluid legs.

A powerful aesthetic that combines the essence of materials with the technical expertise of elements designed for optimal ergonomic comfort. Available in a range of different colours and wood species, the stackable Wind chair will make a perfect addition to any office, hospitality or residential interior.

PATRICK NORGUET

Patrick Norguet approaches objects and design from a graphic perspective. Ever since his childhood, he has always felt more interested in sketchpads than textbooks, which he would fill with doodles. A 'practical' experience of the industry and a design training in Paris (ESDI) have produced an unusual character: a constructive rebel. In 2000, his career was radically transformed when Giulio Cappellini laid eyes on his now famous Rainbow chair.

It was then that Norguet joined the circle of designers who matter, and launched his studio in Paris. Since then, he has designed for the most prestigious companies and brands. Drawing inspiration from everything around him, Patrick Norguet is impervious to trends, looking instead to shape products whose relevance and modernity will live on in time.
