Spring – Chair

Design by Front

'Spring' is Front's playful and offbeat take on a classic, prim and proper chair. In theory, its functional design — broad arms, wide seat, comfortable back, padded and upholstered body — should make it a perfect fit for virtually any environment. Be it at home around the dinner table, in a meeting room or even in a hospital waiting area. If it were not for the way it plays with conventions, that is, incorporating for instance a bold red spring encouraging users to try its bounce. Other elements further contribute to a fast and sporty look: the glossy black metal structure, optional braided and micro-perforated leather arm rests, in addition to a range of fabrics and leathers available for a highly customized and truly unique chair.

FRONT

Sofia Lagerkvist and Anna Lindgren are the members of the Swedish design studio Front. Their works are based on common discussions, explorations and experiments and they collaborate in all projects from initial ideas to the final product. Front's design objects often communicate a story to the observer about the design process, about the material it is made of or about conventions within the design field.

Demonstrating their innovative and experimental mindset, Front have been known to assign part of the making of their designs to animals, computers or machines.

They have made constantly changing interiors, created objects with explosions, robotic furniture and a range of furniture inspired by their fascination with magic.
