BUILD AN IGLOO

These students need a warm space to get out of the cold.
Help them warm up by building an igloo.

BUT FIRST, WHAT ARE IGLOOS?

- Igloos are shelters made out of snow or ice blocks.
- Igloos come in many different sizes, ranging from small to large.
- Some large igloos can fit five rooms and twenty people!

DID YOU KNOW?

- The word for igloo in the Inuit language (iglu) can mean a house built from any type of material, not just snow or ice.
- People outside of Inuit culture define igloos specifically as homes made from snow or ice.

DID YOU KNOW?

- The domed shape of the igloo makes it strong.
- If built correctly, you could stand on the top and not fall through.

DID YOU KNOW?

- Traditionally, small igloos were used by Inuit as temporary shelters during hunting or fishing trips. Larger igloos were used for living spaces, dances, feasts, and special occasions.
- Today, Inuit live in homes made of wood and other standard materials. However, they still occasionally use igloos for hunting trips.

DID YOU KNOW?

- The sleeping/living area are built higher because warm air rises.
- The long passageway helps to keep cold air out.
- Body heat alone can keep an igloo warm, up to 61 °F.

DID YOU KNOW?

- The heat inside the igloo melts the blocks; then, the cold refreezes them.
- This constant melting and refreezing builds up a layer of ice.
- The ice layer makes the igloo even stronger.

BUILD AN IGLOO

Now that we know a little more about igloos, let's start building one. Each time you read a rhythm correctly, you'll build another layer of the igloo.
