“

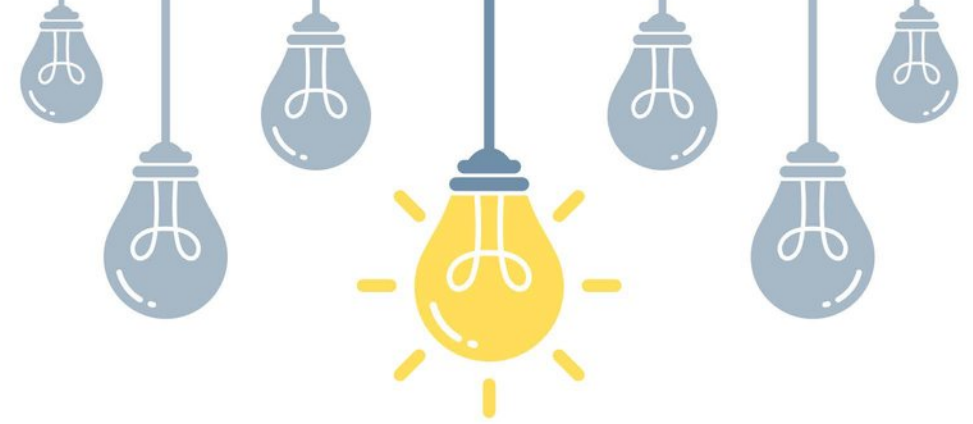

My students loved this activity! There are so many different activities within the mansion along with videos and things to read. I had kids not wanting to leave music class today so they could continue. Thank you so much!

Have students work individually to explore the mansion on their own and pursue their own musical interests.

“
My students absolutely love this resource.
Great for days when you have no voice!

Students click on portraits and picture frames to learn more about the life and music of different composers.

“

This is so cool. It's instantly entertaining due to the graphics and "mystery". I love how it's not something that just practices skills of one level, but is adaptable to many different grade levels.

Students click on ballerina statues and paintings to discover music-based movement activities.

Students search for a secret door that leads to a mysterious room full of music making activities.

Students click on pots and pans to use body percussion to play along with to rhythm videos.
