| In a play for power, Octavian forced Lepidus to resign. In the meantime, Marc Antony had joined with Egypt’s Queen, Cleopatra in their own power play. | 63 BCE: Gaius Octavius was born on September 23rd in the city of Velletri southeast of Rome. His mother Atia was the daughter of Julia, the sister of Julius Caesar.
59 BCE: The father of Octavius dies.
44 BCE: Octavius went to Albania to complete his academic and military training. While there he learned of the assassination of Julius Caesar. Octavius returned to Rome and found that Caesar’s will makes him Caesar’s adopted son and heir to his political and personal fortune. He was advised not to accept the bequest because he was only 18 and little prepared to deal with the hazards of Roman power politics. Nevertheless he did accept. Octavius borrowed funds to comply with Caesar's will and his efforts garnered public support for Octavius. His efforts to fulfill Caesar’s will gains him considerable support among the troops of Caesar.
43 BCE: Octavian and Antony agreed to a sharing of power. They, along with Lepidus who was the Pontifex Maximus, are designated by the Senate as a Triumvirate with dictatorial powers for five years. Octavian, Antony and Lepidus agreed to eliminate those Senators and members of the Roman aristocracy whom any one of the three considered a threat to public order. Altogether 300 senators and two thousand lesser level aristocrats are executed. Cicero, a supporter of Octavian, was designated for execution by Antony under this arrangement.
42 BCE: The Senate deemed Julius Caesar as having been a god. This enhanced Octavian's status still further. Antony and Octavian undertook a military expedition to the east to defeat Brutus and Cassius. The Triumvirate then divide up the Empire. Anthony gets the east and Gaul. Lepidus gets Africa and Octavian gets the west except for Italy which was to be under common control of the three. The alliance of Octavian and Antony was renewed and further confirmed by Antony marrying the sister of Octavian, Octavia. This political marriage also did not endure. Antony was still enamored of Cleopatra, queen of Egypt. |
| Octavian became the sole ruler of Rome & changed his name to Augustus meaning the “Exalted One.” Augustus then becomes the first emperor of Rome. | How was Octavian (Octavius) related to Julius Caesar?

<td>Latin Language</td>

<tr>
<td>The Latin language became the lingua franca or common language in Europe until the 1500’s.</td>

Latin remains the official language of the Roman Catholic Church. Latin became the basis for the Romance languages.

1. French
2. Spanish
3. Portuguese
4. Italian
5. Romanian

According to his tree, what other language has some roots in Latin?

English

Architecture, Engineering, & Technology

The Romans utilized the architectural element of the arch to fortify their structures. Romans inherited the idea of the arch from their predecessors the Etruscans.

Roman used the arch in the aqueducts which carried water from the mountains to the city of Rome.

Romans also created a new building material called concrete which fortified their structures.

The events listed in the time line show that ancient Romans strove to —

A make all types of forced labor illegal
B use the city only for industrial purposes
C maintain a high standard of public health
D limit the making of crafts inside the city
Another important architectural element was the dome seen in such structures as the Roman temple, the Pantheon.

The Roman marketplace where Romans would meet on a daily basis is called the Forum.

Roman System of Law

1. Right to equal treatment under the law
2. Innocent until proven guilty
3. Burden of proof rests with the accuser
4. Punished for actions, not thoughts
5. Unreasonable/unfair laws could be set aside

Decline of the Roman Empire

4 Main Reasons:
1. Economic decline
2. Social unrest
3. Political decay
4. Military upheaval

Economic Decline

Hostile groups migrating into Rome caused a disruption to trade.

Costly wars led to an increase in taxation.

Agricultural production decreased due to 1. overworked land 2. land destroyed by invaders.

The government offset these losses by creating coins with less silver which led to inflation.

Inflation = the drastic drop in value of money coupled with a rise in prices.

What have I learned?

Which of the following does NOT help to explain the decline and fall of the Roman Empire?

- Political corruption and currency inflation
- The barbarian invasions in the West
- The moral decay that affected the ambitions of the people
- The economic weakness of the empire in the East

What contributed to the economic weakening of the late Roman empire?

- A decline in population led to a shortage of soldiers.
- Nobles would not pay taxes, so Rome could not support its armies.
- Asian trade routes were blocked by the eastern Roman empire.
- Heavy taxes helped to push the middle classes into poverty.

Use this cartoon to help explain the impact of inflation on a political state’s economy?

Don’t worry about this one.
Social Unrest
A greater divide between rich & poor led to economic disparity.

A distrust in government led to less interest in participation.

Political Decay
Good men resisted working in government because political office was seen as a burden. This led to very corrupt government officials.

Military interference in governmental matters led to Civil Wars. These civil wars led to a division in the Empire with power shifting to the city of Byzantium.

Military Upheaval
The Empire began to deal with invasions by Germanic tribes.

In order to deal with growing threats, the military began to enlist the services of mercenaries, soldiers loyal only to those who pay them.

The military began to experience a decline in patriotism & loyalty.

Use a dictionary to define the word Apathy. How does it apply to Rome at the end of the empire?

"Lack of interest in or concern for things that others find moving or exciting." - Romans began to not care about the things that were happening which impacted the strength of the empire and its health as a state.

What are the potential problems of the Military controlling the affairs of a political state?

Military goals and priorities are not always those of the civilian population

Why are mercenaries dangerous men to have serving in an army?

Mercenaries have no loyalty beyond what you can buy, and even that is suspect when there are no compelling ties to the country/king that is employing them.

Reforming the Empire

To correct the problems, the emperor Diocletian
1. Doubled the size of the army
2. Fixed prices
3. Ordered farmers/workers to keep working
4. Divided the empire into two parts

Divided Empire
Year: 395
Greek-speaking Byzantium (eastern empire)
Capital: Constantinople

Latin-speaking Rome (western empire)
Capital: Rome

The Emperor Constantine gained control of both East & West, continuing many of the reforms of Diocletian.

According to the map, who was Diocletian’s co-ruler?

Constantine moved his capital from Rome to the city of Byzantium renaming it Constantinople.

Constantinople became an ideal location:
1. had access to trade routes
2. better defenses
3. good ports
