

Improvers Mandolin

I have been teaching mandolin for 20 years all over Scotland and England in classes, workshops, festivals and residentials. I am passionate about music and the mandolin, and this comes across in my patient method of teaching.

The Beginners class continues over three terms from September to June, after which you would expect to progress to the Improvers class.

You do not have to have had any experience of music before coming to the class, and a willingness to learn and have fun will take you a long way.

I encourage my students to ask questions, so never be afraid to ask what you fear to be a most dull-witted question; it may lead to enlightenment!

“A” PART

Originally Scottish, this tune is found in Norway, England (as The King's Head), Ireland and all across the U.S. One American theory about the name is that it refers to morphine given to wounded combatants in the American Civil War (1861-65), although I think that morphine came into existence in the 1890s, putting paid to that one!
