

The Great Scottish Composers

10. Bobby MacLeod Bobby MacLeod (1925-1991) was born into a musical family and his first instrument, aged five, was the Highland bagpipe. At age ten he took up the melodeon and eventually he could alternate between button accordion and piano accordion. He and his famous band toured and recorded extensively, and quite a few of his compositions are still popular, for example Murdo MacKenzie of Torridon, Jean's Reel, Anne Fraser MacKenzie, Charlie Hunter and The King's House.
