

Tickling The Ivories

As told to Jorge Granda

Vincent Corver is a renowned international pianist based in Doha. He is the Manager of Steinway Piano Gallery Qatar (the only one in the Middle East!) Among his duties Corver teaches piano lessons to those interested in learning how to play. QH tells you how to master the basics in four sessions.

Vincent Corver and his colleague Jorick Möller give students the skills of how to teach themselves to play a musical instrument. Fine piano playing is all about “asking yourself the right questions” and they teach you how to do that, so in one month’s time (one hour every week,) students will be able to read music notation and learn how to play the piano in a beautiful way. From September to June, the Steinway Piano Gallery Qatar offers weekly lessons (two groups per week). On Tuesdays the instructors teach ladies only and Wednesdays it’s a mixed group session, starting with a new group each month. Classes run from 6:00 p.m. – 7:00 p.m. at the Steinway Piano Gallery at The Pearl.

“I am now learning from some of the world’s most talented pianists,” says student Jawaher Al Kuwari on the school’s innovative technique and teaching methods. “Each lesson takes me to one of New York’s international music halls, right from the comfort of the gallery.”
