

Glitterati is pleased to announce the publication of Henley in Hollywood
by Julie Muszynski

Lights, Camera, Action! Ms. Lulu Ziminiski and her Japanese Chin, Henley, travel to Hollywood for another glamorous adventure, where they visit Tinsel Town's most iconic sights and the little pup becomes a sensation. The third in Julie Muszynski's Henley series, Henley: In Hollywood takes Ms. Lulu Ziminiski, a fashionably fabulous New Yorker and her equally fabulous black-and-white Japanese Chin, to the West Coast. They never dreamed Henley could become a star himself, joining the ranks of Toto, the Tramp, and Pongo.

Henley and Ms. Lulu jet off to visit the star-studded city and meet with the renowned producer, Ms. Lulu's Great-Great-Uncle, Prince Ziminick Ziminiski, who kindly arranged for them to be his guests on set of his latest film, The Cat's Meow. The fierce, dazzling, and wild lion's roar Henley learned while on safari in Africa makes a big splash on the set of the Hollywood movie and marks the start of Henley's west-coast celebrity. Once they learn of him, Tinsel Town just can't get enough of the exuberant little pup!

Between agents eager to sign him, colorful makeovers from a famous costume designer, and learning about glamorous Hollywood history, Henley and Lulu visit all the iconic sites: the Hollywood sign, Griffith Observatory, and the gardens at the Getty Museum. Henley and Ms. Lulu's Hollywood trip is filled with glamour, celebrities and—as always—the most fashionable adventures. Though they could easily be caught up in the glitz and glamour of his newfound Hollywood fame, Henley and Ms. Lulu prove that they know how to stay true to themselves, and to each other.

Julie Muszynski is a graduate of Parsons School of Design. She has spent over a decade working as a stylist for both the fashion and home furnishing industries. Her previously published books include the following: The Red Book of Dogs and The Blue Book of Dogs (both HarperCollins 2007); Henley, A New York Tail (Glitterati 2006); and Henley on Safari (Glitterati 2012). American Illustration 24, the top juried annual for illustration, selected Henley: A New York Tail for its Illustrated Children's Book Series.

The author has completed a course of study in animation at The School of Visual Arts in New York City and received a Masters of Fine Art/MFA from New York's Fashion Institute of Technology. In addition to writing, illustrating and designing she is a professor at The School of Fashion Design at Parsons. She and her Japanese Chin, Facey (preceded by Henley and Ophelia), divide their time between a Manhattan apartment and a country home in Michigan.
